

Legislature Goes Out Like Lamb

In Greece . . .

Monarchy Abolished

ATHENS (AP) — Premier George Papadopoulos abolished Greece's monarchy Friday, accusing exiled King Constantine of "monstrous acts," and proclaimed himself president of a new Greek republic.

A spokesman for the king, who lives in self-imposed exile in Rome, said: "The king was not expecting this development, and he is very sorry about it."

The conversion of Greece into a republic came after the military-backed regime last week broke up what it said was a coup attempt by two retired admirals and active navy officers.

Papadopoulos, a former colonel, masterminded the April 1967 military takeover that ended parliamentary rule in Greece, the land that named democracy.

He became head of the government and then crown regent in March 1972.

Former Premier Constantine Caramanlis said from Paris, where he lives in exile, that Friday's decree was a new military coup intended to "maintain the dictatorship indefinitely and decorate it with 'elections' and 'referendums'."

Papadopoulos promised later elections and parliamentary rule, and accused Caramanlis of plotting together with the retired admirals.

The decision to abolish the monarchy — on the eve of the king's 33rd birthday — was made at a special Cabinet meeting in Athens, after Constantine failed to condemn last week's abortive coup attempt.

Earlier this year students at Greek universities protested the regime's policies and posed the first massive challenge to the military men in power.

Papadopoulos, in a nationwide radio address, said Greeks will have the opportunity to approve his government's decision at a plebiscite within two months.

He said general elections in 1974 would restore parliamentary rule. It would give the Greeks their first opportunity to vote since 1964.

The monarchy was abolished in 1924 and reestablished by plebiscite in 1946.

Papadopoulos did not say what would happen if the results of the plebiscite this summer run contrary to his decision.

The Greek royal family was not particularly popular prior to the 1967 army coup following political turmoil in which the king was said to have had a major role. But his popularity has grown as the regime remained, and it was widely believed that the king would win a free and open plebiscite as a negative reaction to the authoritarian government.

Economic stability and growing prosperity have given a boost to Papadopoulos' prestige among industrialists and the middle class.

Constantine's royal stipend of $580,000 a year was in doubt. He has received the allowance since he fled the country, with a small portion set aside in Greece for upkeep of his palaces and official residences.

The king also owns property in Greece worth millions of dollars.

Mike Fultz Is Gentle, Tough

By MILAN WALL

Big Mike Fultz may be as gentle as the athletic field as he is tough on it.

But that would probably be a hard line to sell to the competitors the award-winning athlete faced all year at Lincoln High. He recently was named Lincoln Sunday Journal-Star Athlete of the Year.

Instead, they'd have to follow him during the week — to Arnold Elementary School for example — where Mike and eight of his LHS classmates gave up some class time this spring to help students in the trainable mentally retarded (TMR) unit.

This week, when 6-foot-5 Fultz went to Arnold for his last visit before the school year ended, he was greeted with enthusiasm by not-so-big youngsters thrilled to have his help with hammer, saw and nail.

Roles Changed

Within seconds, he was grabbed from every direction and soon the muscular arms that pushed aside tacklers on the gridiron were deftly moving a piece of thin wood through the vibrating blade of a small power saw.

Eager youngsters gathered 'round, waiting their turn.

It was a scene that repeated earlier ones this year when students in Leroy Michaelis' industrial education class at LHS decided they'd work in time to help some 50 TMR students in the classes administered by Educational Service Unit 6.

Mike and eight other seniors took turns traveling across town to the Air Park, where they helped the retarded youngsters build birdhouses from redwood supplies of the LHS shops.

"We pre-cut the pieces for the wooden birdhouses, brought out nails, hammers and hand-drills," said Mike.

Showed The Kids

"With the teachers, we got together and showed the kids how to put them together. 'We got a lot done,' he said.

"The kids really enjoyed it," he added. "So did I."

In the process, said Fultz, he learned "patience is one thing you've got to have" to work with mentally retarded people.

And he also learned "you shouldn't stereotype these people," he said.

Otherwise Impossible Without the high schoolers' help, said teacher Lois McKichan (Mrs. Mac to everyone at the school), the project simply wouldn't have been possible.

"These boys helped me develop in the children what is possible," she said.

Although there's some risk involved, she said she's satisfied that the youngsters can learn to repair things around the home.

"There's also a great deal of satisfaction — a release — just in hitting a nail," she said above the din "This is one of the most rewarding things I've ever done with retarded children."

Vetoes Of School Aid, Construction Upheld

. . . Two Tax Reduction Measures Passed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The 1973 Legislature went out like a lamb Friday, sustaining Gov. J. James Exon's vetoes of major school aid legislation and a number of capital construction projects, chiefly for penal reform.

Twice, lawmakers came within a single vote of overriding the governor's veto of LB472, the school aid bill which would require 50% state support of local school costs by 1975-76.

And twice senators declined to override Exon's capital improvements vetoes. The first effort crept within three votes of the magic number of 30, and the second was four votes short.

Goodrich Switches The second motion to override the veto of LB472 actually gained the required 30 votes for a moment — until Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha switched his vote to no seconds before the tally was officially recorded.

The Legislature adjourned at 4:09 p.m., ending a 90-day session which began last January.

Final day action included enactment of a bill mandating a reduction in the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%, and a measure directing a sharp increase in homestead tax exemptions for low-income elderly Nebraskans.

The homestead exemption bill, LB114, constructed by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and still subject to possible veto by the governor, could cost up to $12 million over a two-year period.

For Elderly Poor Tax exemptions for low-income Nebraskans 65 and older would amount to 90% of the first $7,500 of actual value in 1973, rising to 90% of the first $15,000 in 1974.

LB114 won 44-1 enactment, with Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell dissenting.

But Friday's drama surrounded the vetoes of LB472 and LB256, the capital construction budget bill from which Exon cut funding for major penal reform projects and other assorted proposals.

Seven senators who voted to enact the school aid proposal when it was approved on a 35-8 final reading vote abandoned the bill when Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly attempted to override the governor's veto.

Thirteen lawmakers who voted to enact the construction budget when it cleared its final reading test on a 40-6 score switched sides and voted to sustain Exon's proposed rejections and reductions.

Fourth Switch Noon hour maneuvering almost saved LB472, until Goodrich switched his vote on the issue for the fourth time. The Omahan voted to enact the bill, to sustain the veto on the first motion to override, then to override on the second motion before he switched again at the last moment.

Other senators who voted to enact the bill, but sustain the veto, included Gary Anderson of Axtell, Frank Lewis of Bellevue, Irving Wiltse of Falls City and Richard Fellman, Eugene Mahoney and William Skarda, all of Omaha.

On the second motion, offered by Carpenter, Wiltse switched back to support the bill. But Blair Richendier of Walthill, who voted to override the veto on Warner's motion, did not return to the Legislature after lunch.

And Otho Kime of Valentine, who originally voted to sustain the veto, but reportedly was ready to switch in support of the bill on the second motion, left the chamber before the second vote, returning after it was completed.

Eleven of 13 Omaha senators voted to sustain the veto.

Property Tax 'To Rise' Warner said failure of the bill only assures that local property taxes will "continue to rise unchecked," and that schoolchildren in Nebraska will be "denied equal educational opportunities."

LB472 would have increased the level of state assistance (now $35 million a year, but due to rise to $65 million in 1973-74) to about $140 million by 1975-76, triggering a 1% additional state sales tax rate and an additional 5% personal income tax rate in 1974.

Among the bill's harshest critics was Whitney, who said the proposal was "not what the people asked for" and that it would not provide property tax decreases for all school districts.

Gov. Exon Outlines Session's Highlights

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon, buoyed by having his two biggest vetoes of the session sustained, told senators Friday that they had enacted "some truly outstanding legislation."

Although he noted that he vetoed 10 bills during the session, Exon outlined the highlights of the session from his viewpoint in his traditional farewell to legislators.

The measures cited by Exon were:

- a uniform state pay plan intended to equalize pay among lower-income state employees and standardized vacations and insurance programs
- a 35% increase in state funds for programs aiding the mentally retarded
- a $20 million increase in aid to education.
- expansion of the State

Parole Board providing for more full-time professionals

— repeal of the mandatory sale of school lands.

— restoration of limited capital punishment.

— repeal of the Wyoming Clause which restricted efforts to protect the state's environment

— tightened probation procedures for drunk drivers

The governor also outlined those bills which did not pass but which Exon said he would press for next year:

- reduction of nighttime speed limits on state highways from 65 to 60 m.p.h.
- strengthening sexual psychopath laws
- a program-oriented approach to penal reform.

At the conclusion of the session, Exon said he felt like a man "who has been granted a six-month furlough."

Summit Hailed As Success By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returned Friday from talks with French President Georges Pompidou with his two chief foreign policy advisers hailing the summit as a success.

"We achieved what we set out to do," presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen aboard the plane that brought Nixon and his aides across the North Atlantic from Iceland.

"It went very well," Secretary of State William P. Rogers said in a separate session with reporters. "It lived up to our expectations."

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler added that Nixon felt his two days of talks with Pompidou were "very successful."

The optimistic assessments contrasted with the fact that no agreements on specific issues such as trade or monetary reform—or even substantial progress toward eventual agreements—emerged from the two-day conference on the fringes of the Arctic.

But Nixon's advisers said specific agreements were not sought.

The goal was to agree upon procedures to follow in future negotiations intended to reshape and modernize the Atlantic alliance, Kissinger said.

"There was no attempt at any time to get into substantive resolution of issues" such as trade and monetary reform, he added.

Also accompanying the President to Camp David was his close friend from Florida, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Kissinger said the procedures agreed upon at the summit—essentially continued bilateral and multilateral negotiations and a July meeting of Atlantic community deputy foreign ministers—means that "now we know how to go about" efforts to revitalize the trans-Atlantic alliance.

"That doesn't mean we will agree" on ways to resolve specific issues, he said, but "at least we know where we're going."

Kissinger sought to dispel a belief that Nixon went to the Iceland talks hoping for Pompidou's agreement for a "super summit" of leaders of 16 Atlantic alliance countries.

"We never proposed it," he said. The procedures agreed upon by Nixon and Pompidou could lead eventually to such a major international conference, but Kissinger said "it is too early to know."

A key element of the procedures agreed upon at the Iceland summit was a meeting of the deputy foreign ministers, probably sometime in July, to review current and planned separate negotiations on trade, monetary, military and political issues.

As Nixon departed Iceland, one French spokesman was telling newsmen that the deputy foreign ministers' meeting would be only a bilateral session between the United States and France.

But U.S. officials insisted that the French spokesman was uninformed—that Pompidou specifically agreed to a multilateral meeting between U.S. and a number of other Atlantic alliance representatives.

Pompidou was described as not liking the idea of a big time summit especially one that would have to be arranged so hurriedly as the climax of Nixon's planned tour of Europe this year.

French authorities tended to view both the "Year of Europe" and a "new Atlantic charter" as headline-catching ideas — and therefore no substitute for carefully negotiated policies.

But encouraged by Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain the French leader readily recognized it would be politically dangerous for the Europeans to react too coolly to these American suggestions, sources said.

Pompidou came to Iceland, therefore, willing and ready to help Nixon delicately to disengage from some of his proposals, the informants added.

He apparently has done so by making one small move toward accepting, as an ultimate aim, the proposition of a top-level conference between all the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the European Common Market. NATO has 15 members the Common Market nine. Ireland is the only Common Market country outside NATO. Therefore the distant summit would be a 16-country affair.

But in return for that gesture Pompidou asked for an got some American undertakings.

The "Year of Europe" for instance, may extend well into 1974 and perhaps even into 1975 and the "new Atlantic charter" might boil down to a restatement of principles already acknowledged by the partners, the informants said.

Nixon has acknowledged that on the big money, trade, political and defense issues which divide Americans and Europeans negotiations should continue inside existing frameworks.

Defense problems and strategic issues will be tackled as they have been since 1949 within NATO, the sources added.

Hijackers Brave Balky Engine

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP) — A nation-hopping hijacked airliner encountered engine problems Friday night on the third day of a marathon air piracy drama.

Authorities at Mendoza said the Colombian airliner, believed to be carrying 14 persons, had low oil pressure and trouble with one engine before it took off Friday night. It had landed in Mendoza after flying over the Andes from Peru.

The authorities, who did not elaborate on the severity of the problems, thought the plane might be headed for Buenos Aires, the capital of Argentina.

Of the original 89 persons aboard, the four-engine turboprop Electra was believed to be carrying seven male passengers, a crew of five and the hijackers when it left Mendoza.

The other passengers were let off or escaped from the plane during its seven stops since it was commandeered Wednesday on a domestic flight in Colombia by two youthful, masked hijackers.

The plane's time under terrorist control approached 60 hours, surpassing the record 44-hour hijack of a Brazilian airliner to Cuba in 1970.

A physician in Bogota, Colombia, where SAM airlines was keeping track of the plane, expressed fear that it might meet a tragic fate if the hijackers were going without sleep and were under strain.

The original crew was replaced Friday after the airliner stopped for the third time on the Dutch island of Aruba off Venezuela's Caribbean coast.

Passengers who were freed said "panic and despair were growing every minute" aboard the plane.

An airlines official in Bogota said the hijackers obviously were "desperate youngsters with nothing else in mind but to get some money."

The airlines conceded to ransom demands and gave the hijackers $50,000 before the plane took off Friday morning from Aruba.

Budget Deficit Estimate Is Cut

©The New York Times

Washington — The government added Friday another $3 billion to its estimate of tax collections in the forthcoming fiscal year and correspondingly reduced its estimate of the budget deficit to $2.7 billion.

The reason for the revisions is the inflationary boom in the economy, which increases incomes and profits, and hence tax receipts.

The original estimate of the deficit, made last January for fiscal year 1974, which begins July 1, was $12.7 billion. A month ago the receipts estimate was raised by $7 billion and the deficit reduced by the same amount. Now there is a further $3 billion change.

The expenditure estimates were left unchanged in both revision of receipts.

While the reason for the higher receipts — namely unexpected inflation — is unwelcome, the new figures provide a modicum of good news for the money markets. The less the treasury deficit and hence its borrowing needs, the less upward pressure on interest rates.

Friday's report, officially a budget revision required each June 1, also disclosed what could be an important change in the government's basic revenue picture. It said "tax collection experience so far this year suggests that receipts at a given level of gross national product are higher than was previously estimated."

A technical result of this, together with the inflation, was to increase the estimate of "full employment" receipts by $5 billion compared with the January estimate. This is the hypothetical figure of what budget receipts would be if the economy were operating with 4% unemployment, compared with 5% now.

As a result of this change, there is now estimated to be a "full employment surplus" of $5.3 billion in the new fiscal year, compared with a revised estimate of a full employment deficit of $1.8 billion for fiscal 1973, now nearly ended. President Nixon's basic aim has been to have a balanced full employment budget.

4.4 Million Without Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stuck like a broken record, the nation's unemployment rate held at 5 per cent in May despite the fast pace of the economy, the government said Friday.

But Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon Council of Economic Advisers, said the monthly job report indicates that the economy finally may be slowing down a bit.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the nation's job picture was essentially unchanged. The unemployment rate has hovered around 5 per cent since last November.

As in April, there were 4.4 million people out of work, and 84 million on the job. These figures, however, are adjusted to take seasonal job patterns into account. There was actually a small decline in the number of people out of work, but it was normal for May.

R. C. Holland Nomination Is Confirmed

Washington (AP) — The Senate Friday confirmed the nomination of Robert C. Holland of Nebraska to be a member of the Federal Reserve System's board of governors.

Holland, 48, is a native of Tekamah. He was graduated from Tekamah High School and attended the University of Nebraska before transferring to the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

He was named by President Nixon to fill the unexpired term of J. L. Robertson, a native of Broken Bow, Neb., who retired April 30 after serving on the board for 21 years.

Holland has been serving as the executive director of the Federal Reserve Board

Denver Trees Bugged By Foreign Wasps

Les Eklund, an entomologist with the Colorado State Agriculture Department, releases a batch of wasps into a tree in northeast Denver. The experiment is aimed at learning if the French wasps can survive in Colorado's climate. It is hoped that the wasps will combat the disease-carrying bark beetles which have killed thousands of elm trees in the state.

Astronauts Enjoy Day Of Rest

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Friday was a day of leisure for Skylab's astronauts, the first holiday ever for man in space. They slept late, resting from a busy week in space.

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz slept nearly three hours later than usual and then breakfasted quietly. Plans for the day included showers, a minitrack meet and housekeeping chores.

Skylab program officials, began planning for a space-walking attempt to fix a broken solar panel which could supply some badly needed power to the electricity-starved space station.

"It's possible we'll have a space walk as early as next Tuesday," said John H. Disher, the Skylab deputy program director.

Purpose of the space walk would be to cut or pry loose a piece of strip metal which is jamming close a solar power wing on one side of the Skylab.

The wing would almost double the amount of electrical power available to the space station.

A sun shield ripped away during the launch on May 14 jammed the power panel and completely tore off a second solar power wing.

Mission commander Conrad said they ate breakfast and got directly to work tidying up their space cabin.

Brezhnev Will Speak On U.S. TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev will make a nationally televised address while in the United States this month for summit talks with President Nixon officials said Friday.

The broadcast address would be similar to one made by Nixon when he was in Moscow a year ago. That talk was beamed live to both the Soviet and American public.

Precise date for the broadcast has not been set, officials said. "We are planning about a half hour of TV time," one said. "But we haven't discussed it with the networks yet."

The disclosure came as administration officials stepped up the pace of planning for the U.S.-Soviet summit June 18-26 and as presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger predicted the talks will bring forward strides on disarmament and economic issues.

Americans Buying Small Cars, But With Gas-Guzzling Extras

Detroit (UPI) — Americans may be switching to small cars because of a concern over a fuel crisis, but they're not willing to give up gas-guzzling conveniences.

"The big noise over a fuel shortage has just got to make a difference in what car a person buys, but we're not sure how much yet," said one key industry observer Friday. "But there is a gut instinct that says it has to make some difference."

Through April of this year, small cars — including the imports — accounted for 38.9% of all sales, compared with 34.8% in 1972. But buyers are equipping those cars with gas-robbing devices.

Fifty-five per cent of all Ford Pintos and 56% of Chevrolet Vegas are equipped with automatic transmissions. Air conditioning can be found on 25% of the Pintos and 27% of the Vegas.

World News

At American Motors, where the subcompact Gremlin and compact Hornet are pushing the smallest of the major automakers back into the black, there's little expectation that people will give up the big cars.

"Some people will buy smaller cars in the face of the fuel shortage, but a great number will stay with the size they have for a number of reasons," said Dale E. Dawkins, AMC director-product planning. "But they will insist on better economy."

Dawkins said about 40% of Gremlin sales so far this year have been the sporty Gremlin X with options that put the price tag over $3,000.

Most industry executives don't expect buyers to give up their automatic transmissions, which cut fuel economy by about 6%, or the airconditioners, which exact a 9% fuel penalty.

While the driver of a standard-size 1973 model can expect about 12 miles per gallon over the range of driving conditions, the owner of a 1973 Hornet equipped with a V-8 engine reports up to 18 miles per gallon in the city.

Women May Apply For GI Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Friday that about 4,400 married female members of the armed services may begin taking advantage of a Supreme Court ruling and apply for housing and medical benefits for their husbands.

On May 14, the Supreme Court ruled favorably on an appeal from former Air Force Lt. Sharron Frontiero, who sought a housing allowance for her husband just as married servicemen receive for their dependents.

Mrs. Frontiero has since left the service.

At the time she sought the benefits, her husband was a college student in Alabama.

Pentagon officials said they had no estimate yet on how much providing benefits for husbands would cost. Depending on rank and the number of dependents, the housing allowances vary from $60 to $201 monthly.

Returned POWs To Be Watched

Washington — The Defense Department health chief said all returned Vietnam POWs will be advised and watched for five years in an effort to avoid high suicide, murder and accident rates experienced by POWs in the last wars.

Cease-Fire Hopes Dim

Saigon — Prospects for a realistic cease-fire in Vietnam grew dimmer less than one week before Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho will meet again in Paris to try to strengthen the accord.

U.S. Businessmen Upset

Buenos Aires — Guerrilla blackmail has put the American business community in Argentina into a state of dithers.

EVENTS

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

State Senator Gerald A. Stromer of Kearney, president of the Nebraska Young Republicans, has stressed that the affairs of Watergate are not to be associated with the Republican party as a whole. He tied them in, not incorrectly, with the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

We would not suggest, either, that the GOP condones or sanctions illegal activities. The depriving of people of their individual rights is a serious matter and on a platform to do so, the Republican party would soon cease to exist as a national organization.

It is not, however, quite as simple as that. If you asked the Watergate conspirators and those in the Nixon administration who were a part of it if they condoned and approved criminal actions and the trampling on individual rights, they would undoubtedly tell you they did not.

One of the major errors in this whole business has been, a faulty rationalization of bad actions. The Watergate conspirators were not breaking the law, they would prefer to have you believe, but were acting in the interest of national security.

It was Nixon's fervor in pursuing national and even international security that led his administration down the wrong track. It was his administration's false convictions as to Democratic ties-in with international communism that contributed to the distorted thinking that led to Watergate.

It was Nixon's dedication to law and order and his extremism in the pursuit of patriotism that also contributed to the same thing. And finally, it was his excessive use of secrecy and his arrogance in handling the affairs of the nation that helped bring about Watergate.

If Stromer wants to disassociate himself and the party from Watergate, we cannot blame him but it is going to take more than a denunciation of criminal activity to do it. It isn't just Watergate but all the things that Nixon stands for that are important to us now.

And the President has already resorted, in his answer to Watergate, to the same kind of thing that got him in trouble in the first place. He is seeking to make it appear as though sinister forces are at work against the welfare of the nation and he will not let Watergate interfere with the rightful eradication of those forces.

He is trying to hide from Watergate behind the cloak of national and international security and that suggests that he really hasn't learned much from the recent sorry past.

Just as important as being opposed to criminal activity is having a positive program that does not contribute to such activity. We are all for apple pie and motherhood but we show it in different ways.

Everyone believes that gainful employment is important to the individual but some think it is totally a matter of that individual's lifting himself by his own bootstraps while others would lend that individual a helping hand in finding a job and keeping it.

Nobody is for poverty but does that mean you do something about it or just let nature take its course and then lament the consequences? No, the GOP does not come off free and clear of Watergate simply because the president's re-election committee was not a part of the national picture.

That national party and its members, including Senator Stromer, has stood behind Nixon in all the thinking that led to Watergate. They can't completely wash their hands when the gate finally swings shut in their face.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE Watergate Second To Price Of Onions

NEW YORK — "Outside of Washington, where they act as if they invented it (which they did), Watergate is not always the No. 1 topic of conversation. A lot of people are more interested in how expensive lettuce is today."

And while this may be small comfort to Mr. Nixon, who has to worry about inflation along with everything else, it says something pretty significant about our ordinary folks.

In a contest between politics and pork chops, the pork chops win out every time.

Corruption in high places may grab our attention for a while, but when the end of the month rolls around, James McCord and Howard Hunt take a back seat to the landlord.

After all, as one housewife put it, Watergate will go away, eventually, but it looks as if the high cost of living is going to be around forever.

In a recent 4,000-mile swing around the country, I found students, clubwomen, housewives and businessmen actually turned off by the complexity of the various hearings, depositions, damage suits, charges and countercharges.

So much is happening so fast the "little people" are bewildered by it all. They've reached the point where they can't tell the crooks without a scorecard.

All they know is that a lot of men they never heard of are busily accusing high government officials of terrible things, and that every time they open their newspapers there's another new scandal.

"As far as I'm concerned," snapped one woman who voted for Mr. Nixon even though he's "far too liberal" for her conservative taste, "the whole thing's a crashing bore."

She's building a new house these days, and the only news she wants to read is that the price of lumber is coming down. And if the Senate wants to investigate somebody, she says, it should be "those idiots" who sold $11 million worth of logs to Japan.

A meat packer who moonlights as a cab driver to earn enough to feed five young sons got a small raise this year, which inflation has translated into a bigger pay cut. He gets an employee's discount from the butcher, but, even so, he says, his boys are eating "darned few" steaks these days.

There's not much they CAN eat, in fact, that could be called "cheap." Low-income families who used to fall back on fish and chicken and fill up on potatoes and onions are in real trouble.

Fish is up 20%, chicken costs 35 percent more than a year ago, potatoes have soared 42%, and onions a whopping 100%.

So-called "affluent" families are feeling the pinch, too.

One executive, who increased his withholding tax payments to avoid a big shock on April 15, got it anyway. Instead of coming out even, he owed the IRS another $4,000. Do you wonder he's more interested in tax reform than in who ordered out the Republican spies?

And, at a gathering of 1,000 volunteer workers in the Southwest, a luncheon speaker who warned she wasn't "even going to mention Watergate" got more applause for that opening remark than she did at the end of her speech.

That may not say much for the speech, but it gives you an idea of what the folks around the country think of Watergate.

'Man, You're Really Pushing Us Hard'

Exon Wins Veto Battles

We'll doff our hats grudgingly to Gov. Exon's ability to turn the Legislature around on state aid to education and capital construction. Both measures passed on final reading by handsome margins. But, lo and behold — was it by sleight-of-hand? — the governor's veto of Sen. Jerome Warner's state aid bill and the line-item axe job on the capital construction budget were sustained.

The governor's power over the Legislature on important matters is awesome. Through veto and legislative acquiescence, however, the state again failed to enact meaningful legislation aimed at equalizing education opportunities for Nebraska's school children. The stop-gap measure that was signed into law doesn't fill the bill and wasn't meant to.

And by the same preponderance of gubernatorial power over senatorial gutlessness, Exon ravished the state's penal reform program. After extensive and expensive study of Nebraska's correctional facility and program needs, the Unicameral approved money to build juvenile and adult diagnostic centers and medium-minimum security facilities in Omaha and Lincoln. The governor took them out of the capital budget and the senators upheld him. Those were the beginnings of a program the need for which has not been disputed and they have been put off for yet another year.

The line-item veto binge also struck hard at the University of Nebraska. Exon erased a $4.2 million legislative appropriation for a new life science building on the Lincoln campus — a figure which was scaled down from the university's original request for $5.9 million — and let stand his own $2.2 million proposal which incorporates the remodeling of existing facilities. The university had considered the Legislature's $4.2 million a minimum but acceptable figure. But the Legislature tolerated Exon's patchwork approach to building the needed life science structure.

Searching to assert itself as it does every session, the Unicameral has ended up capitulating on the last day to Gov. Exon's iron-clad determination to do half a job or no job at all in certain areas.

Time Not Essential

The Senate Watergate hearings should be speeded up and key witnesses, such as John Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and John Dean should be called to testify as soon as possible so as to clear up suspicions about President Nixon's involvement. This is a growing sentiment in Washington held by Democrats, such as Sen. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, a member of the Senate select panel, but more especially among Republicans, including Vice President Agnew, former GOP National Chairman Robert Dole of Kansas and panel member Sen. Edward Gurney of Florida, who are the most recent advocates of getting it all over with.

If the committee was indulging itself in irrelevancies and investigators were making no headway, there would be room for criticism. But that does not appear to be the case. Even the testimony of such irrelevant men as hired agent Anthony Ulasevics expands upon the sleaziness (to borrow a word from Elliot Richardson) of the caper to the degree necessary to shock people into consciousness of what happened.

Moreover, it is almost amusing to compare the Republican sense of urgency now with attitudes prior to Nov. 7, 1972. The coverup was as essential then for political reasons as it was for "national security." More essential, we would guess, Attorney General for the Republican Party had the brass to argue for postponements of legal proceedings in cases brought by the Democrats on the grounds that the proceedings would have an undue influence on the election. Watergate was a "third-rate burglary" then, and time was not of the essence.

Well, the time has at last come for the thorough, deliberate investigation that the allegations and confessions demand.

The people would be cheated a second time if anything was left unexplored. The re-election campaign irregularities need to be carefully examined, step by step, plot by plot, bug by bug and dollar by dollar. If the Senate committee has to wait awhile before hearing Nixon's lieutenants, so be it.

JAMES RESTON

New Cast, Same Old Play

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has changed the cast of characters in the cabinet and the White House staff, but the new men are still working under the same old closed system and perpetuating the poisonous atmosphere of suspicion and secrecy.

Ehrlichman, Haldeman, and Dean have been replaced in the White House by Gen. Alexander Haig, Roy Ash, and Len Garment, but this is merely another defensive unit calling on the same old signals.

John Connally of Texas was added to this team, but oddly has not surfaced in Washington since his appointment. In fact, it is reported here that he thought he was going to serve as a private adviser to Nixon, as Clark Clifford and Justice Abe Fortas worked for President Johnson, while keeping their former jobs, and that Connally was surprised when his appointment was publicly announced, forcing him to take leave of his lucrative law practice.

Nevertheless, even with Connally, the reorganization has not been a transformation of the administration, but a reshuffle, which has not produced the fundamental changes required by the prevailing mood of doubt and mistrust.

Also, while nobody in the administration is excusing the Watergate burglary, the President and his men are not condemning the whole system of secrecy, wiretapping and espionage, but are defending it on the grounds that it was necessary to defend the security of the Republic from leaky officials, nosy reporters, and anti-war militants.

The result of this combination of national security arguments and a closed-shop White House is that, even if the President rallies his party to his defense—which he may very well manage to do—the country will still be divided and mistrustful.

It is for this reason that at least a few of his staunchest supporters are arguing that Nixon, in his own and the country's interests, should go forward with a much more drastic reorganization of his administration, conduct the public business in a much more open way, and try to give a sense of new beginning with a bipartisan government.

This is what Franklin Roosevelt did at another time of national crisis during the last world war. He wanted the people to feel that they were being led in a non-partisan way by a coalition government, and for that purpose brought two distinguished Republicans, Henry

L. Stimson and Frank Knox, into his cabinet.

At the end of the war, when the country was trying to negotiate a peace that would avoid the partisan conflicts that destroyed Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations, President Truman insisted that congressional leaders of both parties join with him and the secretary of state in the negotiations on the peace treaties and the formation of the United Nations.

These were gestures and symbols more than anything else. They did not impair the authority of the president; indeed, they helped both presidents in the conduct of the war and the transition to a wholly different world order. But above everything, they were helpful in bringing the White House and the Congress and the leaders of both parties into a common effort, and contributed greatly to the unity of the nation.

This, of course, is not Nixon's way. Even though he has been badly served by his little band of familiar amateurs and manipulative technocrats, he has turned in his troubles to an army general, a former law partner, and a business efficiency expert to rebuild his battered staff. He gets little trust for he trusts few men.

PHILLIS WHEATLEY

They Had A Dream

John Wheatley bought the child on the Boston slave block in 1761. She was about seven years of age and spoke only the tribal tongue of her native Senegal.

On that day, who could have guessed what the future held for that ragged, sickly, forlorn child? Wheatley, a tailor, bought her as a domestic servant for his wife who named her Phillis.

But fate had other plans for Phillis Wheatley. Instead of a servant, Phillis became a poetess of broad but fleeting fame on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mrs. Wheatley soon discovered the child her husband had bought her was uncommonly bright. She quickly learned to speak English. Then she learned to read it. Mrs. Wheatley's daughter taught Phillis Latin, geography, history and had her read poetry. Soon Phillis was writing her own verse.

Her first poem was published in 1770. A collection of her work entitled "Poems on Various Subjects" was published in 1773. She was widely read on the East Coast and was accepted in Boston's most elite circles.

Phillis' verse was as good as the best being written in America in her day, but it was largely imitative. Its significance was more historical than literary.

When she was 19, Phillis was sent on an ocean voyage to England for her health. Her literary talents again made her a celebrity. She was entertained by nobility. The lord mayor of London presented her with a copy of Milton's "Paradise Lost." Another volume of her poetry was published.

But her visit was short-lived. Mrs. Wheatley became ill and Phillis rushed home. Her benefactress died. Mrs. Wheatley's death was followed shortly by the death of her husband and daughter, Mary, who had been Phillis' teacher.

Phillis, who earlier had been granted her freedom, was now alone. She still continued to compose her verse, however, and when the Revolution erupted, she wrote George Washington a complimentary poem upon his appointment to head the colonial armies.

He replied: "I thank you most sincerely for your polite notice of me in the elegant lines you enclosed; and however undeserving I may be of such encomium and panegyric, the style and manner exhibit a striking proof of your poetical talents."

Shortly after this, Phillis met and married a Negro grocer named Peters. Their marriage was not a happy one. She bore him three children but all of them died.

In 1794, Phillis' last poem, "Liberty and Peace," was published. She died that same year at the age of 40.

Condemnation

Alexandria, Neb.

In public affairs the strangest things still happen. President Nixon is being severely censured for Watergate and justly so since he either shared in the dirty work or the persons he chose to work for him did the job.

But Watergate, though bad, is still a piddling thing compared with his desertion of the American banner, first raised nearly 200 years ago by our founding fathers who asserted in the Declaration that man, not, mind you, the nation, had rights which could not be alienated, not denied, not lost.

Under that banner Washington and his comrades revolted against their government, their own English government, and after nine years of war won victory and proceeded to set up a government based on the rights of man, not the rights of nations. Under that banner their successors fought and won the war of 1812. Under that banner the consciences of the free men of the North impelled them to offer as many of their lives as were necessary to compel the recognition that a black man was as properly entitled to those rights as was a white. Under that banner the Cuban and Filipino each had his rights recognized.

It was not until the conclusion of the first World War, in the treaty of peace which included the monstrous known as the League of Nations, that the American banner asserting that the rights of man superseded the rights of nations was attacked by any United States officials. But by the end of the second World War, except in Japan where Douglas MacArthur, possibly the last of the great Americans for awhile had a free hand, that banner had been abandoned. No longer did we fight so that the Korean person or the Vietnamese person should have his rights as man recognized. We fought that Korea, or what was left of it, or Vietnam, what was left of it, should have its national rights recognized. Meaning what?

So, when President Nixon a year or so ago stood up in Moscow and addressed by radio the Russians and us and all other men having radios, saying that as Americans "we believe in the rights of each nation to chart its own course, to choose its own system, to go its own way without interference from other nations," a flat complete desertion of the nearly 200-year-old American banner which asserted that individual men, not nations, had inalienable rights was met, not by a roar of indignation from all Americans as it should have been but by approval, or silence. So we watch the boy trying only to leave the so-called workers' paradise, bleed to death on the Wall, shot by government guards, with indifference. With equal indifference we observe that the individual Russian is deprived of freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and other essential freedoms.

Not Watergate, which is bad but endurable, but Nixon's desertion of the basic American principle that man has rights which no government can rightfully ignore and Nixon's acceptance of the contradicting principle, the principle upheld by communist and other dictatorial regimes, that individual persons have no such rights and should have no such rights — two sins, the first a sin of omission; the second a sin of commission — are what properly condemn Richard Nixon.

What is needed going into a whole series of fundamental negotiations on trade, money, arms control, and energy overseas, and probably fairly soon into Economic Phase 4 at home is not only a new team, but a new spirit of candid talk and bipartisan cooperation, and even after all the turmoil of the last few weeks, this is precisely what is still missing.

The Legacy

Lincoln, Neb.

The days of the radio are old-fashioned and its motivations obsolete. On television, one not only hears news — he can see and almost touch and feel the vibrations of a chaotic world.

Burma Shave signs are off highways. The Interstate and Howard Johnsons have solved all America's problems between the Hiltons. Watergate seems to have climbed over the back fence instead of gossiping over it, while America is crawling with gripes and dire uncertainty, and nobody knows just where to scratch.

Trouble is, despite our super-communications, democracy is being taught like most parents teach their offspring the facts of life, wondering if there is something the kids should be telling them.

Democracy is wonderful, but like too many sweets, it gives greedy people the belly-ache. Either they can't digest it properly or want to consume it all in one bite. They consider democracy unfair because they can't control it. They think it won't work because they can't impose and harass other American citizens without getting a dose of their own medicine.

If unhappy migrants of this world can't understand the American way of life, perhaps it's because the federal Constitution was instigated by America's democratic forefathers who understood America's needs very well, and left a profound legacy of free heritage and common sense.

EVENTS

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

State Senator Gerald A. Stromer of Kearney, president of the Nebraska Young Republicans, has stressed that the affairs of Watergate are not to be associated with the Republican party as a whole. He tied them in, not incorrectly, with the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

We would not suggest, either, that the GOP condones or sanctions illegal activities. The depriving of people of their individual rights is a serious matter and on a platform to do so, the Republican party would soon cease to exist as a national organization.

It is not, however, quite as simple as that. If you asked the Watergate conspirators and those in the Nixon administration who were a part of it if they condoned and approved criminal actions and the trampling on individual rights, they would undoubtedly tell you they did not.

One of the major errors in this whole business has been a faulty rationalization of bad actions. The Watergate conspirators were not breaking the law, they would prefer to have you believe, but were acting in the interest of national security.

It was Nixon's fervor in pursuing national and even international security that led his administration down the wrong track. It was his administration's false convictions as to Democratic ties with international communism that contributed to the distorted thinking that led to Watergate.

It was Nixon's dedication to law and order and his extremism in the pursuit of patriotism that also contributed to the same thing. And finally, it was his excessive use of secrecy and his arrogance in handling the affairs of the nation that helped bring about Watergate.

If Stromer wants to disassociate himself and the party from Watergate, we cannot blame him but it is going to take more than a denunciation of criminal activity to do it. It isn't just Watergate but all the things that Nixon stands for that are important to us now.

And the President has already resorted, in his answer to Watergate, to the same kind of thing that got him in trouble in the first place. He is seeking to make it appear as though sinister forces are at work against the welfare of the nation and he will not let Watergate interfere with the rightful eradication of those forces.

He is trying to hide from Watergate behind the cloak of national and international security and that suggests that he really hasn't learned much from the recent sorry past.

Just as important as being opposed to criminal activity is having a positive program that does not contribute to such activity. We are all for apple pie and motherhood but we show it in different ways.

Everyone believes that gainful employment is important to the individual but some think it is totally a matter of that individual's lifting himself by his own bootstraps while others would lend that individual a helping hand in finding a job and keeping it.

Nobody is for poverty but does that mean you do something about it or just let nature take its course and then lament the consequences? No, the GOP does not come off free and clear of Watergate simply because the president's re-election committee was not a part of the national picture.

That national party and its members, including Senator Stromer, has stood behind Nixon in all the thinking that led to Watergate. They can't completely wash their hands when the gate finally swings shut in their face.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Watergate Second To Price Of Onions

NEW YORK — Outside of Washington, where they act as if they invented it (which they did), Watergate is not always the No. 1 topic of conversation. A lot of people are more interested in how expensive lettuce is today.

And while this may be small comfort to Mr. Nixon, who has to worry about inflation along with everything else, it says something pretty significant about our ordinary folks.

In a contest between politics and pork chops, the pork chops win out every time.

Corruption in high places may grab our attention for a while, but when the end of the month rolls around, James McCord and Howard Hunt take a back seat to the landlord.

After all, as one housewife put it, Watergate will go away, eventually, but it looks as if the high cost of living is going to be around forever.

In a recent 4,000-mile swing around the country, I found students, clubwomen, housewives and businessmen actually turned off by the complexity of the various hearings, depositions, damage suits, charges and countercharges.

So much is happening so fast the "little people" are bewildered by it all. They've reached the point where they can't tell the crooks without a scorecard.

All they know is that a lot of men they never heard of are busily accusing high government officials of terrible things, and that every time they open their newspapers there's another new scandal.

"As far as I'm concerned," snapped one woman who voted for Mr. Nixon even though he's "far too liberal" for her conservative taste, "the whole thing's a crashing bore."

She's building a new house these days, and the only news she wants to read is that the price of lumber is coming down. And if the Senate wants to investigate somebody, she says, it should be "those idiots" who sold $11 million worth of logs to Japan.

A meat packer who moonlights as a cab driver to earn enough to feed five young sons got a small raise this year, which inflation has translated into a bigger pay cut. He gets an employer's discount from the butcher, but, even so, he says, his boys are eating "darned few" steaks these days.

There's not much they CAN eat, in fact, that could be called "cheap." Low-income families who used to fall back on fish and chicken and fill up on potatoes and onions are in real trouble.

Fish is up 20%... chicken costs 35 percent more than a year ago... potatoes have soared 42%... and onions a whopping 100%.

So-called "affluent" families are feeling the pinch, too.

One executive, who increased his withholding tax payments to avoid a big shock on April 15, got it anyway. Instead of coming out even, he owed the IRS another $4,000. Do you wonder he's more interested in tax reform than in who ordered out the Republican spies?

And, at a gathering of 1,000 volunteer workers in the Southwest, a luncheon speaker who warned she wasn't "even going to mention Watergate" got more applause for that opening remark than she did at the end of her speech.

That may not say much for the speech, but it gives you an idea of what the folks around the country think of Watergate.

'Man, You're Really Pushing Us Hard'

Exon Wins Veto Battles

We'll doff our hats grudgingly to Gov. Exon's ability to turn the Legislature around on state aid to education and capital construction. Both measures passed on final reading by handsome margins. But, lo and behold — was it by sleight-of-hand? — the governor's veto of Sen. Jerome Warner's state aid bill and the line-item axe job on the capital construction budget were sustained.

The governor's power over the Legislature on important matters is awesome. Through veto and legislative acquiescence, however, the state again failed to enact meaningful legislation aimed at equalizing education opportunities for Nebraska's school children. The stop-gap measure that was signed into law doesn't fill the bill and wasn't meant to.

And by the same preponderance of gubernatorial power over senatorial guttiness, Exon ravished the state's penal reform program. After extensive and expensive study of Nebraska's correctional facility and program needs, the Unicameral approved money to build juvenile and adult diagnostic centers and medium-minimum security facilities in Omaha and Lincoln. The governor took them out of the capital budget and the senators upheld him. Those were the beginnings of a program the need for which has not been disputed and they have been put off for yet another year.

The line-item veto binge also struck hard at the University of Nebraska. Exon erased a $4.2 million legislative appropriation for a new life science building on the Lincoln campus — a figure which was scaled down from the university's original request for $5.9 million — and let stand his own $2.2 million proposal which incorporates the remodeling of existing facilities. The university had considered the Legislature's $4.2 million a minimum but acceptable figure. But the Legislature tolerated Exon's patchwork approach to building the needed life science structure.

Searching to assert itself as it does every session, the Unicameral has ended up capitulating on the last day to Gov. Exon's iron-clad determination to do half a job or no job at all in certain areas.

Time Not Essential

The Senate Watergate hearings should be speeded up and key witnesses, such as John Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and John Dean should be called to testify as soon as possible so as to clear up suspicions about President Nixon's involvement. This is a growing sentiment in Washington held by Democrats, such as Sen. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, a member of the Senate select panel, but more especially among Republicans, including Vice President Agnew, former GOP National Chairman Robert Dole of Kansas and panel member Sen. Edward Gurney of Florida, who are the most recent advocates of getting it all over with.

If the committee was indulging itself in irrelevancies and investigators were making no headway, there would be room for criticism. But that does not appear to be the case. Even the testimony of such irrelevant men as hired agent Anthony Ulasevics expands upon the sleaziness (to borrow a word from Elliot Richardson) of the caper to the degree necessary to shock people into consciousness of what happened.

Moreover, it is almost amusing to compare the Republican sense of urgency now with attitudes prior to Nov. 7, 1972. The coverage was as essential then for political reasons as it was for "national security." More essential, we would guess. Attorneys for the Republican Party had the brass to argue for postponements of legal proceedings in cases brought by the Democrats on the grounds that the proceedings would have an undue influence on the election. Watergate was a "third-rate burglary" then, and time was not of the essence.

Well, the time has at last come for the thorough, deliberate investigation that the allegations and confessions demand.

The people would be cheated a second time if anything was left unexposed. The re-election campaign irregularities need to be carefully examined, step by step, plot by plot, bug by bug and dollar by dollar. If the Senate committee has to wait awhile before hearing Nixon's lieutenants, so be it.

JAMES RESTON

New Cast, Same Old Play

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has changed the cast of characters in the cabinet and the White House staff, but the new men are still working under the same old closed system and perpetuating the poisonous atmosphere of suspicion and secrecy.

Ehrlichman, Haldeman, and Dean have been replaced in the White House by Gen. Alexander Haig, Roy Ash, and Len Garment, but this is merely another defensive unit calling on the same old signals.

John Connally of Texas was added to this team, but oddly has not surfaced in Washington since his appointment. In fact, it is reported here that he thought he was going to serve as a private adviser to Nixon, as Clark Clifford and Justice Abe Fortas worked for President Johnson, while keeping their former jobs, and that Connally was surprised when his appointment was publicly announced, forcing him to take leave of his lucrative law practice.

Nevertheless, even with Connally, the reorganization has not been a transformation of the administration, but a reshuffle, which has not produced the fundamental changes required by the prevailing mood of doubt and mistrust.

Also, while nobody in the administration is excusing the Watergate burglary, the President and his men are not condemning the whole system of secrecy, wiretapping and espionage, but are defending it on the grounds that it was necessary to defend the security of the Republic from leaky officials, nosy reporters, and anti-war militants.

The result of this combination of national security arguments and a closed-shop White House is that, even if the President rallies his party to his defense—which he may very well manage to do—the country will still be divided and mistrustful.

It is for this reason that at least a few of his staunchest supporters are arguing that Nixon, in his own and the country's interests, should go forward with a much more drastic reorganization of his administration, conduct the public business in a much more open way, and try to give a sense of new beginning with a bipartisan government.

This is what Franklin Roosevelt did at another time of national crisis during the last world war. He wanted the people to feel that they were being led in a non-partisan way by a coalition government, and for that purpose brought two distinguished Republicans, Henry

L. Stimson and Frank Knox, into his cabinet.

At the end of the war, when the country was trying to negotiate a peace that would avoid the partisan conflicts that destroyed Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations, President Truman insisted that congressional leaders of both parties join with him and the secretary of state in the negotiations on the peace treaties and the formation of the United Nations.

These were gestures and symbols more than anything else. They did not impair the authority of the president; indeed, they helped both presidents in the conduct of the war and the transition to a wholly different world order. But above everything, they were helpful in bringing the White House and the Congress and the leaders of both parties into a common effort, and contributed greatly to the unity of the nation.

This, of course, is not Nixon's way. Even though he has been badly served by his little band of familiar amateurs and manipulative technocrats, he has turned in his troubles to an army general, a former law partner, and a business efficiency expert to rebuild his battered staff. He gets little trust for he trusts few men.

PHILLIS WHEATLEY

They Had A Dream

John Wheatley bought the child on the Boston slave block in 1761. She was about seven years of age and spoke only the tribal tongue of her native Senegal.

On that day, who could have guessed what the future held for that ragged, sickly, forlorn child? Wheatley, a tailor, bought her as a domestic servant for his wife who named her Phillis.

But fate had other plans for Phillis Wheatley. Instead of a servant, Phillis became a poetess of broad but fleeting fame on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mrs. Wheatley soon discovered the child her husband had bought her was uncommonly bright. She quickly learned to speak English. Then she learned to read it. Mrs. Wheatley's daughter taught Phillis Latin, geography, history and had her read poetry. Soon Phillis was writing her own verse.

Her first poem was published in 1770. A collection of her work entitled "Poems on Various Subjects" was published in 1773. She was widely read on the East Coast and was accepted in Boston's most elite circles.

Phillis' verse was as good as the best being written in America in her day, but it was largely imitative. Its significance was more historical than literary.

When she was 19, Phillis was sent on an ocean voyage to England for her health. Her literary talents again made her a celebrity. She was entertained by nobility. The lord mayor of London presented her with a copy of Milton's "Paradise Lost." Another volume of her poetry was published.

But her visit was short-lived. Mrs. Wheatley became ill and Phillis rushed home. Her benefactress died. Mrs. Wheatley's death was followed shortly by the death of her husband and daughter, Mary, who had been Phillis' teacher.

Phillis, who earlier had been granted her freedom, was now alone. She still continued to compose her verse, however, and when the Revolution erupted, she wrote George Washington a complimentary poem upon his appointment to head the colonial armies.

He replied: "I thank you most

sincerely for your polite notice of me in the elegant lines you enclosed; and however undeserving I may be of such encomium and panegyric, the style and manner exhibit a striking proof of your poetical talents."

Shortly after this, Phillis met and married a Negro grocer named Peters. Their marriage was not a happy one. She bore him three children but all of them died.

In 1794, Phillis' last poem, "Liberty and Peace," was published. She died that same year at the age of 40.

Condemnation

Alexandria, Neb.

In public affairs the strangest things still happen. President Nixon is being severely censured for Watergate and justly so since he either shared in the dirty work or the persons he chose to work for him did the job.

But Watergate, though bad, is still a piddling thing compared with his desertion of the American banner, first raised nearly 200 years ago by our founding fathers who asserted in the Declaration that man, not mind you, the nation, had rights which could not be alienated, not denied, not lost.

Under that banner Washington and his comrades revolted against their government, their own English government, and after nine years of war won victory and proceeded to set up a government based on the rights of man, not the rights of nations. Under that banner their successors fought and won the war of 1812. Under that banner the consciences of the free men

Group Goes To Court To Save Wild Horses

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The president of a national organization which has gone to the courts to attempt to protect wild horses said Friday senseless destruction of wild animals could start a "chain reaction" leading to man himself.

"Man is just one part of overall life," said Mrs. Paul M. Twyne, president of the National Horse Protection Association.

The association and the Humane Society of the United States recently filed suit in a federal court in Washington to try to enforce public laws against wild horse destruction.

The suit was filed after as many as 60 mustangs were believed rounded up illegally in Idaho. Eight were found dead at the bottom of a canyon, hog rings stapled into their nostrils to reduce breathing.

To Packing Plant
Another 37 were shipped to a packing plant in North Platte, where Mrs. Twyne will head Saturday to inspect the horses.

"We want to see it never happen again," said Mrs. Twyne, who spoke in Lincoln Friday at the Midwest Humane Conference.

"If they wanted to reduce a surplus, we agree that reduction of a population may be necessary," she said. But she said the horses involved in the Idaho incident were brutally treated and slaughtered in clear violation of federal law.

Never Contacted

Mrs. Twyne is also a member of the National Wild Horse Advisory Board, but she said it was never contacted about the Idaho incident.

She also charged that federal officials were warned that the

Collision Near Eagle Kills One

Eagle — A rural Weeping Water woman was killed Friday afternoon in a two-car crash at a county road intersection one mile west and two north of Eagle, according to the State Patrol.

The patrol said Linda S. McKinstry, 23, was killed when the car she was driving was in collision with a vehicle driven by LeRoy Folken, 44, of Eagle.

She is survived by her husband, Michael; two sons, Jeffrey and Gregory; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elston of Louisville, and a sister, Mrs. Dick McBride of Lincoln.

Funeral services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday at the Faith Missionary Church in Weeping Water.

slaughter was going to take place but did nothing about it.

Thus, she said, the two organizations filed suit against both the Department of Interior and Agriculture, which jointly administer the law designed to protect wild horses.

More recently, Mrs. Twyne's organization filed a complaint against the Navy Department to attempt to halt Navy plans to get rid of 200 wild burros on testing grounds in Arizona.

Environmental Impact

In that case, the complaint charged that no environmental impact statement had been submitted.

Mrs. Twyne, a state humane officer in Virginia, said the Horse Protection Association was founded to battle the practice of producing such painful sores on the legs of walking horses that the horse must kick its front legs high in an attempt to avoid the pain.

It still carries on that battle, while also turning attention to wild horses.

Mrs. Twyne said her efforts have convinced her that the public will react to such attempts to eradicate natural wildlife, attempts which she said upset the balance of nature.

She said animals, and men, must live within limit of their environment in order to protect the balance that keeps man alive.

Roselle Warns Hikers Ticks Abundant In Woodland Areas

This spring has seen a very abundant number of wood ticks in recreational areas, according to Bob Roselle, University of Nebraska-Extension entomologist. For example, from one to 10 adult ticks have been removed from clothing after a one-hour exposure in recreational areas in Lancaster County with numerous ticks in wildlife areas of some parks.

"American dog ticks can carry and transmit spotted fever, although the disease has been rare. They are capable of causing tick paralysis, and can transmit tularemia (rabbit fever)," Roselle said.

The American dog tick feeds on rodents (rabbits, mice, ground squirrels) the first two stages of its life cycle, so ticks are more abundant where rodents are numerous, Roselle explained. The adult attacks man, and most all other warm blooded animals, he added.

Most tick bites can be prevented by removing clothing immediately after returning from an excursion in an infested area, and examining the body carefully, he said. Most attach in the hairy regions of the body, especially the nape of the neck, so examine all such regions carefully.

Use a fine toothed comb to comb hair when returning from tick country, and comb frequently if exposure is over a period of several hours, he said.

Death Of Ida Fitzgibbons A Suicide, According To McCook Police Report

McCook (AP) — McCook police have released a six-page statement saying evidence indicates the death of Ida Fitzgibbons, 80, was a suicide. Firemen found her body April 25 with a kitchen knife in the chest and a plastic clothesline around the neck.

The police report based its conclusion on several points:

— When firemen came to the burning home, all doors and windows were found locked.

— There was no motive indicated. The woman had not been robbed, the report said, and her purse was found untouched.

— The plastic clothesline around her neck was placed "toward the front, as one would place a scarf."

— There were no signs of a struggle. Miss Fitzgibbons' hair was neatly done and her glasses were in place on her forehead.

— The position of the knife indicated the wound was self-inflicted.

The report said she had suffered a broken ankle, which could have been caused when a colonnade post fell through a hole burned into the floor. It was found near her body.

The fire apparently began with an electric stove. Evidence gathered by the state fire marshal indicated she could have started the fire immediately before killing herself "to remove the problem of disposal of the house," the report said.

The house had been sold, the report said, but some difficulties in the transaction had arisen.

Authorities said she was in the process of moving to North Platte to live with a sister who was ill.

In the days preceding her death, she expressed fear that the house would be vandalized or burned.

She had drawn up a will the day before her death, and had cashed bonds the day before, and the day of her death.

The report noted two members of her family, a brother and a sister, had died in the past month.

A Red Willow County coroner's jury deadlocked 3-3 on whether to rule the death a homicide or a suicide.

The day after her body was found, County Atty. Clyde Sarrett said homicide was a possibility. Authorities had theorized the fire was started to cover evidence.

Funeral Held For Goeschel

Funeral services were held Friday for Walter M. Goeschel, 5842 Cleveland, who died Tuesday at Bryan Memorial Hospital after suffering an electrical shock Sunday.

Mr. Goeschel, 59, was sanding wood on his porch Sunday evening and apparently crawled under the porch where he was shocked. He was admitted to Bryan Memorial Hospital early Monday.

Tiny Meteorite Lands In Yard In SE Lincoln

A small piece of metal which recently scorched and dug a hole in the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Gary R. Smith, 4701 So. 43rd, tentatively has been identified as a micro-meteorite by a University of Nebraska-Lincoln geology professor.

Dr. Sam Treves made the identification after Smith asked a friend in the university geology department to bring it to the campus for examination.

The metal — which was slightly magnetic and kidney-shaped, about 1/2-inch long and 1/4-inch in diameter — was either a micro-meteorite or a piece from some space project that re-entered the atmosphere, Dr. Treves explained.

Raid Jails 14 Men, 3 Women

Fourteen men and three women were jailed Thursday night following raids on eight Lincoln residences by state, county and city law enforcement officials.

Police Capt. Paul Jacobson said the arrests were the product of an investigation over the last month in which a court ordered telephone wiretap was used at one of the houses.

Telephone conversations had been monitored for the past two weeks.

The homes raided were at 3275 Potter, 6344 Hartley, 1545 Stockwell, 1042 So. 35th, 1736 Washington, 2400 Garfield, 1742 So. 41st and 702 Plum.

Jacobson said there were still some warrants outstanding and more were being issued.

Sixteen of those arrested were arraigned in County Court Friday morning on charges of possession of narcotics, possession of narcotics with the intent to deliver, and theft-related charges.

Police said a large quantity of marijuana, hashish, amphetamines, barbiturates and drug paraphernalia was confiscated.

Carpets and household appliances thought to have been stolen from apartment buildings under construction near 56th and Holdrege were also confiscated.

On at least three of the raids police found no one home so they forced their way into the houses and arrested the occupants when they returned.

FBI Identifies Body Of Man Found In River

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Authorities have identified the body of a man found in the Elkhorn River near here on May 9.

The Douglas County Sheriff's office said the man was Mark Carpenter, 22. When his body was found, an autopsy showed he had three wounds, apparently inflicted by a shotgun.

The FBI identified the body through latent fingerprints.

Carpenter was known to have worked in Omaha, the Sheriff's office said.

His parents live in Missouri, it was reported.

Shooting Death Ruled Self Defense

Omaha (UPI) — Deputy County Atty. Jerry Kinney said Friday a 76-year old Omaha man arrested in the fatal shooting of a younger man, will not be charged because the act appeared to be self-defense.

Police records show Arthur Krake shot James C. Smith, 32, about 7 p.m. Thursday and Smith died in a hospital an hour later of a wound in the neck.

The records also show that Krake accused Smith of threatening and assaulting him numerous times in recent years, including an incident last November when Krake shot Smith and was freed without charges.

Krake told police Smith threatened to kill him and tried to break through the back door of his home Thursday night. Krake fired the shot inside the house which passed through a door and a window before striking Smith.

"I work here during the winter and spring — just six or seven months. Then I take occasional cleaning jobs during the summer and fall. Many people are shocked that I'm still on the job at my age. But I was brought up to enjoy work. I'm grateful I've got my health so I can work."

Isn't it hard for an older person to find a job? "Yes and no. It's difficult if folks don't know you and what you can do. Employers seem to assume that if you're past 70 you're frail and sickly, and don't really want to work. But if you've got a reputation as a good worker who's cheerful and dependable, everyone wants you. Half a dozen hotels call me regularly and try to get me to come with them. Maybe someday I'll retire. But not for awhile."

Dr. Lambert Dies; Ex-NU Ag Dean

Funeral services will be in Denver Tuesday for Dr. W. V. Lambert, 75, former dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Dr. Lambert died Thursday night.

Services will be at 10 a.m. with burial at Howards-Berkeley Park in Denver. The family has requested memorials to Life Center, Stewardship Dept., P. O. Box 20187, Denver, Colo., 80220.

In addition to Mrs. Lambert, other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Anne Woodworth and Mrs. Marilyn McIntosh, both of Denver, and seven grandchildren.

A native of Shubert, Dr. Lambert served as ag college dean from 1948 to 1960.

In 1960, he joined the University of Illinois staff at Uttar Pradesh University in India. In 1963, he returned to the United States and became professor emeritus of animal science.

Dean Lambert received his B.S. degree from NU in 1921, his M.S. from Kansas State University in 1923 and his Ph. D. in animal genetics from the University of California in 1931.

He served as Seward County Extension Agent from 1921 to 1922.

Before coming to NU, he taught animal genetics at Iowa State University for 12 years, was director of the Purdue University Experiment Station, served for a time with the USDA's Bureau of Animal Industry, and was research administrator for USDA.

Dean Lambert headed the unofficial agricultural delegation from U.S. to Russia in 1955. He was a member of the U.S. delegation to the Food and Agricultural Organization conferences in 1946 and 1947, and he went to Iraq on an FAO assignment during the summers of 1952 and 1953.

In the summer of 1949, Dean Lambert helped with a survey of agricultural research in the British African Colonies. In the fall of 1954 he went to Turkey in connection with the University of Nebraska Mission.

He played an important role in the establishment of the new Ataturk University in Turkey, one of the chief goals of the NU mission there.

During his tenure in Nebraska, Dr. Lambert had served as a member of the Agricultural Advisory Board to the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, a trustee of the Midwest Research Foundation in Kansas City, Mo., and as a trustee of the Farm Foundation in Chicago.

Mayor, Wife Are David City Royalty

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
David City — Mayor and Mrs. Louis Martin, both members of seven-generation Butler County families, were named Pioneer King and Queen of the David City Centennial here Friday night.

The Martins have eight children. Their grandchildren are seventh-generation descendants of John Grubaugh (Martin's great-great-grandfather) and Theodore Maysenburg (Mrs. Martin's great-great-grandfather), who were among the earliest settlers in the county.

The award was made just before the first of three weekend performances of a pageant dramatizing the history of this Butler County seat, which inherited the county government from now-defunct Savannah in 1873.

The historical pageant capped the first day of a centennial weekend culminating preparations which began with a fund-raising drive in January.

The final week's events began last Saturday when alumni of David City High School had a chance to renew acquaintanceship with one of their most distinguished classmates.

Fame
Ruth Etting Alderman of Colorado Springs, a 1916 graduate of David City High, went on to discovery by Irving Berlin, stardom in the Ziegfeld Follies and fame as a singer of "Shine On Harvest Moon" and other ballads.

Miss Etting is staying with her cousin and childhood companion, Mrs. Grace Griffin, during the centennial. She attended the first performance of the historical pageant Friday night, which included a dramatization of her life story — also the subject of a movie, "Love Me or Leave Me."

Named Centennial Queen for her assistance in promoting the pageant was Mrs. Bud Comte.

Other Friday events included homestyle breakfast and lunch served by Catholic and Baptist church women's groups, the opening of an art show featuring works by David Citian Dale Nichols and Terence Duren of Shelby, a midway, kids' games, a parcel auction and fiddlers' contest.

Square Dance
After the pageant, a square dance was held in the parking lot of the county courthouse.

On tap for Saturday are youth hobby displays and futuristic

David City displays. 11 a.m.: centennial youth parade, 1:30 p.m.: Nebraska State Championship Firemen's Contest between Sidney and Dalton fire departments, 4 p.m.: drawings for three prize-winning quilts, 7 p.m.: and a performance of the pageant, 8 p.m.

Sunday's events include a centennial barbecue, noon: centennial parade, 1:30 p.m.: beard judging, 5 p.m.: time capsule ceremonies, 7 p.m.: and final pageant performance, 8 p.m.

Attending the weekend's festivities are a writer and photographer from the National Geographic special publications division. David City has been selected by National Geographic as a typical rural centennial town for a book on life in rural America.

Renken Innocent In Crash

Dale S. Renken, charged with two felony counts of motor vehicle homicide in connection with a two-car accident last October at 33rd and Cornhusker, was acquitted late Friday by a Lancaster District Court jury.

The jury which had agreed at the onset of the trial last week to work an additional week beyond the normal two-week jury term, found Renken, 23, innocent of both counts.

Renken had pleaded innocent to the charges filed in connection with the deaths of Gary W. Zimmerman, and Larry M. Renker.

A third man, Dale Renker, uncle of Larry Renker, also died as a result of the accident.

According to police records at the time of the accident, the Renken auto swerved in front of the Renker auto as both west-bound cars rounded the turn at 35th St.

The Renken auto then struck the median and swerved back into the outer lane of traffic and passed the Renker auto; and at 33rd the Renken auto swerved back into the inner lane of traffic striking the Renker vehicle, police reports said.

The Renker auto went back across Cornhusker over the curb and into a new mobile trailer home parked on the north side of Cornhusker west of 33rd, according to police.

Florida Bicycle Trail Praised

By ROBERT PETERSON
Palm Beach, Fla. — One of this town's joys is its famed free bicycle trail. Created half a century ago, the trail, protected from auto traffic, starts at the middle of this storied island and runs along the blue waters of Lake Worth for three and a half miles.

At the end of the trail is a soft drink stand where cyclists can refuel and gaze past the inlet out to sea. Then they're ready for the return trip. Most cyclists do the seven-mile round trip in two hours.

It's probably the most beautiful trail anywhere. It's level and hard surfaced, ranging in width from 20 feet down to narrow strips of six feet. It is shaded half its distance by low hanging palms, water oak and banyan trees, and there's a profusion of exotic flowers such as oleanders, hibiscus and magnolia. The trail runs so close to the lake that cyclists can hear the water lapping the shoreline.

If you don't have your own bicycle, there's a shop at the start of the trail where folks from freckled youngsters to austere dowagers rent bikes for 75 cents an hour, or $9 a week. Many vacationers rent a bike when they arrive, use it for two or three rides a day on trail, and keep it locked at night on bicycle racks provided at local hotels.

Unlike many diversions, bicycling can be enjoyed by folks of all ages. Parents are glad to see small children enjoying the safety of bike riding on trails protected from motor traffic. Teenagers and middle-agers love bicycling, and so do modern elders. One wonders why every city in the nation hasn't provided central bicycle trails for residents interested in one of the healthiest of outdoor pursuits.

Lack Of Major Actions May Be Mark Of '73 Unicameral

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The 1973 Legislature may be remembered for its lack of landmark achievements.

Its major piece of legislation, a bill to require 50% state financial support for the public schools by 1975-76, fell victim to a gubernatorial veto.

Capital improvement projects flowing from the state's comprehensive penal reform study were also axed by veto.

And, in both cases, senators sustained the action of Gov. J. James Exon.

Emotional Action

One of the Legislature's most emotional decisions may have had no effect at all — its resolution to nullify Nebraska's 1972 ratification of the equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Two of its major enactments resulted from U.S. Supreme Court decisions: a new capital punishment law and a new anti-abortion law.

Other enactments of note included a $20 million increase in the level of annual state aid to the schools; repeal of the 1965 law mandating sale of state school lands; increased homestead tax exemptions for low-income elderly Nebraskans; creation of a new State Department of Correctional Services, and mandated fluoridation of community water supplies, except where citizens negate the directive at an initiative petition election.

Subject To Veto

The homestead tax exemption hike will be subject to possible gubernatorial veto following adjournment of the 1973 session.

Lawmakers also increased the pari-mutuel horse race betting tax, and directed a one-year decrease in the personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%. The latter is also subject to possible veto.

Other pieces of major legislation included increased state financial obligation for support of a statewide system of technical community colleges; a hike in the state's minimum wage; approval for construction of a $20 million state office building, and adoption of a revised classification and pay plan, together with a uniform program of group life and health insurance, for state employees.

Budget Approved

Senators approved the governor's original operational budget bill without change, and on their final day in session, accepted Exon's revised capital construction budget by sustaining his veto of a number of projects.

The fiscal impact of legislative decisions is to allow tax cuts either this year or next, and perhaps both.

Here is a list of key legislation added to the law books by the 1973 session:

EDUCATION

—authorized year-around operation of public schools;
—repealed mandatory sale of state school lands, providing the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds with permissive authority to sell tracts of land;
—established a University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at Lincoln.

—increased state aid to the public schools for 1973-74 with $20 million federal revenue sharing funds.

—authorized the University of Nebraska to establish new colleges (including a College of Rural Health and Related Subjects) and to award graduate degrees in journalism at its Lincoln campus.

—expanded the loan of public school textbooks to private school children, upon request, to include grade school students.

—guaranteed teachers and other public school employees access to their own personnel file.

—increased state responsibility for providing special education programs for handicapped children.

—reorganized state into seven technical community college areas, and required state financial support for operational costs when areas assume a one-half local property tax obligation.

—reduced 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13% and the corporate income tax rate from 3.75% to 3.25%.

—established an ad valorem advisory committee to counsel the state tax commissioner on property tax assessment with the aim of developing uniform standards leading toward tax equalization.

—increased pari-mutuel horse race betting tax from 8% to 9%.

—increased homestead tax exemptions for low-income elderly Nebraskans to 90% of the first $7,500 of actual value in 1973 and to 90% of the first $15,000 of actual value in 1974.

—provided options for county property tax reappraisals; required annual publication of a list of tax-exempt real property.

—extended tax exemption to goods stored in transit or for shipment in bonded and licensed warehouses.

—required State Board of Equalization and Assessment to consider appropriate provisions and obligations for two succeeding calendar years in establishing state sales and income tax rates.

—removed sales tax exemption for nursing homes operated for profit.

—required immunization of school children against measles, rubella, polio, diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus.

—provided for care and education of multihandicapped children through University of Nebraska Medical Center.

—added 10 drug investigators to the staff of the State Patrol and increased the drug fund.

—provided State Patrol with legal counsel.

—repealed minors convicted of drug violations to be sentenced to not more than 10 days of public works activities in lieu of other penalties.

—repealed unconstitutional death penalty law; enacted a new capital punishment statute.

—increased second and third conviction penalties for drug offenses.

—prohibited law enforcement officers from having any financial interest in a business with a liquor license.

—increased membership on the Board of Parole from three to five.

—adopted new code for rules of the road.

—established procedures for enforcement of unlawful discriminatory practices through the Equal Opportunity Commission.

—increased some penalties for violation of motor vehicle laws.

—increased maximum weekly benefits for employment security.

—increased minimum wage from $1 to $1.60 an hour by July 1, 1974, and extended coverage to students and new workers.

—designated May 30 as Memorial Day and November 11 as Veterans Day for holiday purposes.

—provided for mandatory retirement of state employees at age 72.

—required a 15% retail markup in the wholesale price of liquor.

—provided perpetual special hunting and fishing permits for disabled veterans.

—repealed the life safety code; provided for regulation by the state fire marshal.

—established a program for the eradication of brucellosis in swine.

—repealed requirements for registration of voters if they fail to vote in two successive general elections.

—repealed restriction preventing state from adopting air and water pollution control standards stricter than those of the federal government.

—tightened election finance reporting procedures.

—authorized tenants to serve as commissioners on local housing authorities.

—enacted a restrictive anti-abortion law prohibiting abortion once the fetus is viable (except to save the mother's life or health) and requiring protection of the unborn child's life when a pregnancy is aborted.

—provided for state financial participation in emergency assistance benefits for families with children.

—provided a deficit appropriation of $2,320,930 for 1973-74 state aid for the construction of municipal waste treatment facilities; established state matching fund level at 12 1/2%.

—increased workers compensation benefits.

—increased maximum weekly benefits for employment security.

—increased minimum wage from $1 to $1.60 an hour by July 1, 1974, and extended coverage to students and new workers.

—designated May 30 as Memorial Day and November 11 as Veterans Day for holiday purposes.

—provided for mandatory retirement of state employees at age 72.

—required a 15% retail markup in the wholesale price of liquor.

—provided perpetual special hunting and fishing permits for disabled veterans.

—repealed the life safety code; provided for regulation by the state fire marshal.

—established a program for the eradication of brucellosis in swine.

—repealed requirements for registration of voters if they fail to vote in two successive general elections.

—repealed restriction preventing state from adopting air and water pollution control standards stricter than those of the federal government.

—tightened election finance reporting procedures.

—authorized tenants to serve as commissioners on local housing authorities.

—enacted a restrictive anti-abortion law prohibiting abortion once the fetus is viable (except to save the mother's life or health) and requiring protection of the unborn child's life when a pregnancy is aborted.

—provided for state financial participation in emergency assistance benefits for families with children.

—established state mental retardation regions for the distribution of community care aid.

—allowed banks to operate two, rather than one, detached auxiliary teller offices, including one anywhere within the community.

—provided for mandatory retirement of judges at age 72, although they may finish their elected term of office.

—enacted a free-flow-of-information act to protect the press and its sources.

—directed construction of a state office building with a price ceiling of $20 million plus accumulated interest on the funds.

—authorized the state engineer to permit heavier vehicle weights on the Interstate Highway.

—extended senatorial immunity to include committee meetings.

—authorized the use of accumulated interest in the construction of the $12 million University of Nebraska fieldhouse.

—established a uniform program of group life and health insurance for state employees.

—adopted a revised classification and pay plan for state employees.

—provided for licensing of livestock marketing.

—requested Congress to propose a constitutional amendment to nullify the U.S. Supreme Court's decision on abortion.

—adopted a resolution seeking to nullify Nebraska's 1972 ratification of the equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

—required that fuel continue to be supplied with independent dealers.

—increased state share of costs for railroad grade crossing protection devices from 65% to 80%.

Income Tax Rate Reduced To 13%

The Legislature Friday directed a reduction in the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%.

Senators gave 32-10 final reading approval to LB10, a bill rewritten by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly to provide a retroactive tax cut in view of the unanticipated surplus of state revenue collected under current tax rates.

The bill will go to Gov. J. James Exon, who can dispose of the proposal as he wishes. A gubernatorial veto would wipe out the measure.

Might OK Bill

Exon, however, indicated in a letter to Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell that he might approve the bill if senators sustained his vetoes of school aid and capital construction measures.

"I am not unalterably opposed to providing a retroactive income tax reduction from 15% to 13% to Jan. 1, 1973, provided other legislative action squares with conservative decisions on spending matters," the governor wrote Anderson.

"I have been fighting for three years to keep expenditures and taxes in line and I don't propose to give up now," Exon declared.

Homestead Exemptions

The governor indicated he might also accept legislation increasing homestead tax exemptions for low-income elderly homeowners if his earlier vetoes were sustained.

Anderson had written Exon requesting the governor's views on both bills.

LB10 would, in effect, return some $12 million in surplus revenue to 1973 taxpayers.

The cut, retroactive to Jan. 1, would result in reduced withholding for the remainder of the year or increased tax refunds in 1974, or both. Implementation would be left to the Department of Revenue.

Legislature's Answer

The tax cut represented the Legislature's answer to the governor's proposal for an income tax cut for 1974.

Warner contended that surplus revenue would be more fairly distributed if it were returned to the current year's taxpayers than applied to next year's taxpayers.

Some senators privately stated their preference for a tax reduction in 1974, an election year in which both the governor and 24 senators face the voters — if they choose to seek re-election.

Here is the vote to enact LB10:

For: Anderson, Barnett, Burbach, Carpenter, C. Carlson, Cavanaugh, DeCamp, Duis, Epke, Fellman, Johnson, Kelly, Kremer, F. Lewis, Luedtke, Marsh, Marvel, Murphy, Proud, Rasmussen, Savage, Schmitt, Simpson, Skarda, Stahmer, Stromer, Stull, Syas, Warner, Whitney, Wittse.

Against: Fowler, Goodrich, Goodrich, Hasebroock, Johnson, F. Lewis, Mahoney, Marsh, Marvel, Murphy, Rasmussen, Stromer, Stull, Syas, Warner, Whitney, Wittse.

Absent or Not Voting: F. Carlstens, Clark, Nore, Richendier, Waldron.

ADC payments are now limited to a maximum of $124 per month for a parent and one child, and $34 monthly for each additional child.

Here is the vote to enact LB235:

For: Anderson, Barnett, Burbach, Carpenter, C. Carlson, Cavanaugh, DeCamp, Duis, Epke, Fellman, Johnson, Kelly, Kremer, F. Lewis, Luedtke, Marsh, Marvel, Murphy, Proud, Rasmussen, Savage, Schmitt, Simpson, Skarda, Stahmer, Stromer, Stull, Syas, Warner, Whitney, Wittse.

Against: Fowler, Goodrich, Goodrich, Hasebroock, Johnson, F. Lewis, Mahoney, Marsh, Marvel, Murphy, Rasmussen, Stromer, Stull, Syas, Warner, Whitney, Wittse.

Absent or Not Voting: F. Carlstens, Clark, Nore, Richendier, Waldron.

Bill To Up ADC Payments Just Misses

Legislation increasing payments for aid to dependent children came within one vote of enactment Friday after Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha gained approval to put the issue to a vote.

The bill, LB235, together with its appropriations rider, had been trapped on final reading by a legislative prohibition against further consideration of spending measures.

But Chambers won 25-8 consent to put the matter to a final vote before the 1973 Legislature went home.

The proposal fell on a 24-20 vote, one count short of the 25 affirmative votes needed to enact it.

A later motion by Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice to reconsider the decision and pass the bill failed on a 23-15 vote. On that motion, four senators refused to vote on the roll call.

The appropriations rider, LB235A, which included $3.3 million in additional spending from the state tax supported general fund, failed on a 22-22 tie vote.

LB235, sponsored by Sen. Loran Schmitt of Bellwood, would have provided ADC families with assistance at 80% of the minimum standard of needs, as defined by the Department of Public Welfare.

ADC payments now average about 60% of minimum needs.

In addition to state tax funds, LB235A would appropriate $4.5 million in federal funds to pay the bill.

Chambers said the increase is required for "children who are

Floor Established Under Retail Liquor Prices

By The Associated Press
Nebraska's Legislature established a floor under retail liquor prices Friday, requiring a 15% markup above wholesale cost.

A 33-9 approving vote was accorded the measure, which carries the emergency clause and thus takes effect the moment it is signed by the governor.

Via another bill, lawmakers also revised the character of bottle clubs by eliminating the requirement that they maintain members and membership lists.

In effect, the latter move puts bottle clubs on nearly the same footing as Class C liquor licenses, those authorized to sell liquor by the drink publicly.

The price fixing provision is contained in LB366, sponsored by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

It prohibits retailers from selling liquor at a price lower than cost plus a 15% markup, unless special permission is granted by the Liquor Control Commission "to avoid practical difficulties or unnecessary hardships."

The bottle club provision is contained in LB111, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and passed 38-2.

A key feature of bottle club licensing in Nebraska, a licensing system which has brought liquor by the drink to a number of communities which had prohibited Class C licensing, had been the provision that only club members could patronize the clubs, and membership lists had to be maintained. LB111 erases those requirements.

The same bill, however, increases from $250 to $500 the cost of a bottle club license in any county having a population of 5,500 or more. In smaller counties, the price remains at $250.

Lack Of Major Actions May Be Mark Of '73 Unicameral

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The 1973 Legislature may best be remembered for its lack of landmark achievements.

Its major piece of legislation, a bill to require 50% state financial support for the public schools by 1975-76, fell victim to a gubernatorial veto.

Capital improvement projects flowing from the state's comprehensive penal reform study were also axed by veto.

And, in both cases, senators sustained the action of Gov. J. James Exon.

Emotional Action

One of the Legislature's most emotional decisions may have had no effect at all — its resolution to nullify Nebraska's 1972 ratification of the equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Two of its major enactments resulted from U.S. Supreme Court decisions: a new capital punishment law and a new anti-abortion law.

Other enactments of note included a $20 million increase in the level of annual state aid to the schools; repeal of the 1965 law mandating sale of state school lands; increased homestead tax exemptions for low-income elderly Nebraskans; creation of a new State Department of Correctional Services, and mandated fluoridation of community water supplies, except where citizens negate the directive at an initiative petition election.

Subject To Veto

The homestead tax exemption hike will be subject to possible gubernatorial veto following adjournment of the 1973 session.

Lawmakers also increased the pari-mutuel horse race betting tax, and directed a one-year decrease in the personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%. The latter is also subject to possible veto.

Other pieces of major legislation included increased state financial obligation for support of a statewide system of technical community colleges; a hike in the state's minimum wage; approval for construction of a $20 million state office building, and adoption of a revised classification and pay plan, together with a uniform program of group life and health insurance, for state employees.

Budget Approved

Senators approved the governor's original operational budget bill without change, and on their final day in session, accepted Exon's revised capital construction budget by sustaining his veto of a number of projects.

The fiscal impact of legislative decisions is to allow tax cuts either this year or next, and perhaps both.

Here is a list of key legislation added to the law books by the 1973 session:

EDUCATION

- authorized year-around operation of public schools.
- repealed mandatory sale of state school lands, providing the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds with permissive authority to sell tracts of land.
- established a University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at Lincoln.
- increased state aid to the public schools for 1973-74 with $20 million in federal revenue sharing funds.
- authorized the University of Nebraska to establish new colleges (including a College of Rural Health and Related Subjects) and to award graduate degrees in journalism at its Lincoln campus.
- expanded law allowing the loan of public school textbooks to private school children, upon request, to include grade school students.
- guaranteed teachers and other public school employees access to their own personnel file.
- increased state responsibility for providing special education programs for handicapped children.
- increased annuities for retired teachers.
- reorganized state into seven technical community college areas, and required state financial support for additional costs when areas assume a one-mill local property tax obligation.

TAXATION

- reduced personal income tax rate from 15% to 13% and the corporate income tax rate from 3.75% to 3.25%.
- established an ad valorem advisory committee to counsel the state tax commissioner on property tax assessment with the aim of developing uniform standards leading toward tax equalization.

- increased pari-mutuel horse race betting tax from 4% to 5%.
- increased homestead tax exemptions for low income elderly Nebraskans to 90% of the first $7,500 of actual value in 1973 and to 90% of the first $15,000 of actual value in 1974.

- provided options for county property tax reappraisals; required annual publication of a list of tax-exempt real property.

- extended tax exemption to goods stored in transit or for shipment in bonded and licensed warehouses.

- required State Board of Equalization and Assessment to consider appropriations and obligations for two succeeding calendar years in establishing state sales and income tax rates.
- removed sales tax exemption for nursing homes operated for profit.

- required immunization of school children against measles, rubella, polio, diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus.

- provided for reporting of abuse of minor children and incompetent or disabled persons.

- provided for care and education of multihandicapped children through University of Nebraska Medical Center.

- added 10 drug investigators to the staff of the state and increased the drug purchase fund.

- provided State Patrol with legal counsel.

- allowed minors convicted of liquor violations to be sentenced to not more than 10 days of public works activities in lieu of other penalties.

- repealed unconstitutional death penalty law; enacted a new capital punishment statute.
- increased second and third conviction penalties for drug offenses.

- prohibited law enforcement officers from having any financial interest in a business with a liquor license.
- increased membership on the Board of Pardon from three to five.
- adopted new code for rules of the road.

- established procedures for enforcement of unlawful discriminatory practices through the Equal Opportunity Commission.

- increased some penalties for violation of motor vehicle laws.

- established a State Department of Correctional Services.
- increased and broadened membership on the Commission on Indian Affairs.

- created a State Department of Correctional Services.

- created a State Department of Correctional Services.

- provided a deficit appropriation of $2,320,930 for 1972-73 state aid for the construction of municipal waste treatment facilities; established state matching fund level at 12 1/2%.

- increased workmen's compensation benefits.
- increased maximum weekly benefits for employment security.
- increased minimum wage from $1 to $1.60 an hour by July 1, 1974, and extended coverage to students and new workers.

- designated May 30 as Memorial Day and November 11 as Veterans Day for holiday purposes.

- provided for mandatory retirement of state employees at age 72.
- required a 15% retail markup in the wholesale price of liquor.
- repealed restriction on hunting and fishing permits for disabled veterans.
- repealed the life safety code, provided for regulation by the state fire marshal.
- established a program for the eradication of brucellosis in swine.
- repealed requirements for registration of voters if they fail to vote in two successive general elections.
- repealed restriction preventing state from adopting air and water pollution control standards stricter than those of the federal government.
- adopted a corrupt practices act, tightening election finance reporting procedures.
- authorized tenants to serve as commissioners on local housing authorities.
- repealed a restrictive anti-abortion law, prohibiting abortion once the fetus is viable (except to save the mother's life or health) and requiring protection of the unborn child's life when a pregnancy is aborted.
- provided an extra $500,000 (beyond the budget) for community programs for the mentally retarded.

- established state mental retardation regions for the distribution of community care aid.
- allowed banks to operate two, rather than one, detached auxiliary teller offices, including one anywhere within the community.
- provided for mandatory retirement of judges at age 72, although they may finish their elected term of office.
- enacted a free-flow-of-information act to protect the press and its sources.
- directed construction of a state office building with a price ceiling of $20 million plus accumulated interest on the funds.

Income Tax Rate Reduced To 13%

The Legislature Friday directed a reduction in the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%.

Senators gave 32-10 final reading approval to LB10, a bill rewritten by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly to provide a retroactive tax cut in view of the unanticipated surplus of state revenue collected under current tax rates.

The bill will go to Gov. J. James Exon, who can dispose of the proposal as he wishes. A gubernatorial veto would wipe out the measure.

Might OK Bill

Exon, however, indicated in a letter to Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell that he might approve the bill if senators sustained his vetoes of school aid and capital construction measures.

"I am not unalterably opposed to providing a retroactive income tax reduction from 15% to 13% to Jan. 1, 1973, provided other legislative action squares with conservative decisions on spending matters," the governor wrote Anderson.

"I have been fighting for three years to keep expenditures and taxes in line and I don't propose to give up now," Exon declared.

Homestead Exemptions

The governor indicated he might also accept legislation increasing homestead tax exemptions for low-income elderly homeowners if his earlier vetoes were sustained. Anderson had written Exon requesting the governor's views on both bills.

LB10 would, in effect, return some $12 million in surplus revenue to 1973 taxpayers.

The cut, retroactive to Jan. 1, would result in reduced withholding for the remainder of the year or increased tax refunds in 1974, or both. Implementation would be left to the Department of Revenue.

Legislature's Answer

The tax cut represented the Legislature's answer to the governor's proposal for an income tax cut for 1974.

Warner contended that surplus revenue would be more fairly distributed if it were returned to the current year's taxpayers than applied to next year's taxpayers.

Some senators privately stated their preference for a tax reduction in 1974, an election year in which both the governor and 24 senators face the voters — if they choose to seek re-election. Here is the vote to enact LB10:

YMCA Extends Deadline For Capital Fund Drive

By MILAN WALL

Officials of the Lincoln YMCA said Friday they are extending a capital fund drive which they said has not yet been as successful as they had hoped.

"A lot of people don't believe the critical financial situation the Y is in," Assistant Director C. E. (Chile) Armstrong told a Lincoln Community Services subcommittee.

"It's a campaign to keep the Y open," he said, as YMCA spokesman appeared to explain a 1974 United Fund budget request.

The YMCA is conducting the private drive in an attempt to raise $600,000 to reduce a capital debt of about $1 million and pay about $100,000 in operating deficits.

Not 1/2 Complete

The Community Services (LCS) subcommittee was told that the drive was not yet 50% complete, and thus the May 31 deadline had been extended.

Still pending, YMCA officials said, are the results of corporate board actions in the "big gift" division of the campaign.

"We've cut the staff everywhere; we're holding the line on programs," said Armstrong.

Although the Y is planning a 1974 budget of $635,000, about $15,000 less than this year, it is seeking an increase of $25,000 in United Fund support in the coming year.

$115,000 Request

The request is for $115,000, up from the $90,000 LCS granted it in 1973.

The $90,000 would still be considered the "base support" for Y programs. Another $10,000 is being sought to make up for federal fund losses for the Y-Pals program, $5,000 for salary increases, $5,000 to pay bus transportation to Y facilities for low-income youths and another $5,000 to boost residence counseling.

Meanwhile, at a separate budget hearing later in the day, the director of the People's City Mission said he's convinced the mission's Emergency Family

Shelter "is doing an outstanding job," but he conceded the shelter is in financial trouble.

"We're about $10,000 short," Pastor Jerry Dunn told an LCS subcommittee.

"Scrambling"

"We're scrambling for our life at the moment," said Dunn, "but with the proper footwork we may come out all right."

"We did prove the need was there."

Dunn's comments on the Family Shelter were provided as the City Mission met to explain its 1974 United Fund request of $60,000, which would represent a $17,000 increase from this year.

Dunn said although costs per case at the shelter, located at 84th and Adams, were as much as $272 in the first 11 months of operation, those costs have dropped to $114 in 1973.

He said he had overestimated the amount of help the families would get from public welfare. In the first 11 months, he said, only 8% of the families served got welfare-paid board and room.

That is increasing this year, he said, and more families are being served.

He also said the number of days each family stays has dropped from nine to four.

Operations at the men's shelter downtown continues fairly smoothly, he told the subcommittee.

NCEA Eyes Action In NU Wage Dispute

The president of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Association said Friday his organization is studying the possibility of filing its own legal action in connection with alleged sexual discrimination at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"I don't know yet what course we'll take," said Allen Boettcher of Lincoln, but he said he's been in regular contact with Robert Crosby, the association's attorney, on the matter.

Boettcher said he was surprised to learn that the University of Nebraska Board of Regents had filed in Federal District Court here a petition for a declaratory judgment in the case.

The petition named the association of county extension workers as a defendant in the case.

Boettcher, Lancaster County agent, said about 200 county agents are directly involved in the matter, but he said all employees of the NU Agriculture College are similarly affected.

"The issue is clear cut," he said. "Two different systems were used for salaries for men and women."

In the petition, NU admits that women's salaries were increased to an average level, while men's were not. The university is arguing that the system was intended as a one-time remedy to correct salary discrimination against women.

But the extension agents are arguing that in the process men suffered salary discrimination when raises were given last July 1.

NU is asking for a judgment in its favor on the question of whether the system violated provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Lancaster Manor, Parking Lot Top List For Revenue Sharing

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The bulk of the first one-fifth of the revenue sharing for Lancaster County may be used for the third phase of remodeling at Lancaster Manor and paving the parking lot one block south of the County-City Building.

Lancaster County commissioners Friday agreed upon a proposed breakdown for spending of the $397,175 and are expected to give formal approval to the proposed expenditures at Tuesday's board meeting.

Each of the three commissioners had listed his top priorities for spending at last Tuesday's meeting with at least one of the priorities of each board member gaining informal approval Friday.

Disagreement

Board Chairman Robert Colin and Commissioner Kenneth Bourne voiced disagreement with the timing of new Commissioner Jan Gauger's proposals for a fiscal analyst and a social services planning department.

Bourne said he felt that a fiscal analyst and social services planning department were "premature" for this year.

Mrs. Gauger insisted that $50,000 should be set aside for a fiscal analyst with plans for someone to be hired on a part-time basis from July 1 to Dec. 31 and then hire a full-time person for the position.

Colin said he didn't see how far such a person would get with elected officials "who run their own offices."

"Door Shut"

Until there is some legislation to change the setup of county government, Colin said, he foresees a fiscal analyst who tries to tell county officials where they should spend their money "is going to get the door shut in his face just like we have."

Mrs. Gauger argued that she felt now was the time to start looking at the budgets and seeing where there may be some wasted spending.

She contended that the amount of dollars saved the taxpayers would far exceed the amount expended for such expertise in budgeting.

Public Sentiment

Public sentiment, she contended, would prompt the county officials to go along whether they were in favor at first or not.

Colin and Bourne contended that they didn't see how anyone starting now could possibly learn enough about the entire county government operation to give advice for the upcoming budget.

Bourne suggested that Mrs. Gauger, who took office this January and has not participated in the budget setting, "go through a budget" this year.

YRs Choose Co-Chairmen

Ray Stevens was elected chairman and Dorothy Anderson co-chairman Friday night at a Lancaster County Young Republicans meeting in Lincoln, said outgoing chairman Art Blackman.

Other persons chosen at the annual election of officers meeting were Cathy Rauch, secretary, and Elaine Usher, treasurer.

before making any decisions on an analyst.

However, the commissioners tentatively included the $50,000 in the proposal and Bourne and Colin will act on the proposals Tuesday when Mrs. Gauger, who is starting a month's vacation, is absent.

The commissioners also tentatively proposed $25,000 for social services, and were unanimous in accepting Colin's proposal to use $75,000 of the funds to pay for the land acquired from the state for location of the Juvenile Attention Center.

The board also generally agreed on Bourne's proposal that the parking lot should be paved and set aside $100,000 for the project with the hope that a parking fee could be charged employees who park there so the county might get some return on the investment.

The commissioners agreed that the remaining $147,175 should be used toward third phase remodeling of the Lancaster Manor, which would put the home at its maximum capacity.

2 Lincoln Hospitals Raise Room Rates

Room rates at two Lincoln hospitals are going up this year, while officials at two others say they don't anticipate rate increases in the near future.

Bryan Memorial Hospital said it had instituted a new room rate policy Friday, the first day of Bryan's new fiscal year.

Information officer Jim Gember said the rates will go up $2 per room in most categories.

The Lincoln General Hospital Board of Trustees Thursday adopted a 1973-74 budget proposal which will require a 5.9% increase in rates.

At St. Elizabeth Health Center and Providence Hospital, officials said no rate increases are planned at this time.

At Bryan, patients Friday began paying $50 for the semi-private room that was $48, and rates for private rooms increased $2 to a range of $54 to $62.

For intensive or coronary care the new rate will be $130 per day, up $10.

Lincoln General's new rate schedule will not be known until the board meets next month. The new rates there are expected to go into effect Sept. 1.

St. Elizabeth is charging $48 for a semi-private room and $54 for a private room. At Providence the rates are $45 and $50.

Drug Abuse Center To Open Today

The doors will officially open Saturday at Lincoln's new Drug Contact and Counseling Center, a facility that will aim to help young people in drug abuse situations.

The center is at 2425 N. where tours will begin Saturday at 4

p.m. and an official opening ceremony will begin at 5.

The center is a project of the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs and its Lincoln Drug Commission.

Funds to support center operations have come from the City Council, the State Drug

'Door Shut'

Until there is some legislation

to change the setup of county government, Colin said, he foresees a fiscal analyst who tries to tell county officials where they should spend their money "is going to get the door shut in his face just like we have."

Mrs. Gauger argued that she felt now was the time to start looking at the budgets and seeing where there may be some wasted spending.

She contended that the amount of dollars saved the taxpayers would far exceed the amount expended for such expertise in budgeting.

Public Sentiment

Public sentiment, she contended, would prompt the county officials to go along whether they were in favor at first or not.

Colin and Bourne contended that they didn't see how anyone starting now could possibly learn enough about the entire county government operation to give advice for the upcoming budget.

Bourne suggested that Mrs. Gauger, who took office this January and has not participated in the budget setting, "go through a budget" this year

YRs Choose Co-Chairmen

Ray Stevens was elected chairman and Dorothy Anderson co-chairman Friday night at a Lancaster County Young Republicans meeting in Lincoln, said outgoing chairman Art Blackman.

Other persons chosen at the annual election of officers meeting were Cathy Rauch, secretary, and Elaine Usher, treasurer.

before making any decisions on an analyst.

However, the commissioners tentatively included the $50,000 in the proposal and Bourne and Colin will act on the proposals Tuesday when Mrs. Gauger, who is starting a month's vacation, is absent.

The commissioners also tentatively proposed $25,000 for social services, and were unanimous in accepting Colin's proposal to use $75,000 of the funds to pay for the land acquired from the state for location of the Juvenile Attention Center.

The board also generally agreed on Bourne's proposal that the parking lot should be paved and set aside $100,000 for the project with the hope that a parking fee could be charged employees who park there so the county might get some return on the investment.

The commissioners agreed that the remaining $147,175 should be used toward third phase remodeling of the Lancaster Manor, which would put the home at its maximum capacity.

2 Lincoln Hospitals Raise Room Rates

Room rates at two Lincoln hospitals are going up this year, while officials at two others say they don't anticipate rate increases in the near future.

Bryan Memorial Hospital said it had instituted a new room rate policy Friday, the first day of Bryan's new fiscal year.

Information officer Jim Gember said the rates will go up $2 per room in most categories.

The Lincoln General Hospital Board of Trustees Thursday adopted a 1973-74 budget proposal which will require a 5.9% increase in rates.

At St. Elizabeth Health Center and Providence Hospital, officials said no rate increases are planned at this time.

At Bryan, patients Friday began paying $50 for the semi-private room that was $48, and rates for private rooms increased $2 to a range of $54 to $62.

For intensive or coronary care the new rate will be $130 per day, up $10.

Lincoln General's new rate schedule will not be known until the board meets next month. The new rates there are expected to go into effect Sept. 1.

St. Elizabeth is charging $48 for a semi-private room and $54 for a private room. At Providence the rates are $45 and $50.

Drug Abuse Center To Open Today

The doors will officially open Saturday at Lincoln's new Drug Contact and Counseling Center, a facility that will aim to help young people in drug abuse situations.

The center is at 2425 N, where tours will begin Saturday at 4

p.m. and an official opening ceremony will begin at 5.

The center is a project of the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs and its Lincoln Drug Commission.

Funds to support center operations have come from the City Council, the State Drug Commission, the State Crime Commission and several private organizations and civic clubs in Lincoln.

Representatives from all the sponsoring groups will be on hand for Saturday's ceremonies, which are also open to the public.

Never before discounted-they'll be gone in "short order."

This is the first time ever we've been able to save you such a bundle on the Sansui 1000X AM/FM Stereo Receiver. Now you can afford to treat your ears to SANSUI QUALITY. The 1000X serves up heaping portions of undistorted power (100 watts IHF) which will really take charge of your speakers and "clean up" their sound. It will also drive up to 4 speakers, handle two tape decks, and eliminate interstation noise when you tune between FM stations. Tell a Newfangled you'll "have one to go" you sure can't go wrong.

Save $100 on a Sansui 2000X . . . that's using your noodle.

The primary difference between the Sansui 2000X and the model 1000X mentioned above is in the power outlet. The 2000X gives you even more 140 watts IHF to be exact. This extra punch will be appreciated by loudness-lovers or folks who have "low efficiency" speakers, which require more power to begin with. If you're not sure how much SANSUI POWER you need, count on your Newfangled to get you up with the Sansui that's right for your particular speakers, listening habits, and budget . . . that's using your noodle too.

Court Rules On Psychiatric Exams In Rape Cases

By United Press International
The State Supreme Court Friday unanimously refused to go so far as to require that every person charged another with a sexual offense, such as rape, undergo a psychiatric examination prior to trial.

At the same time, however, the court indicated if asked in another case it might tend to look favorably on a claim that a district court, using inherent powers, might be able to require such an examination if good cause is shown for such a move.

The Supreme Court held out that possibility by ruling:

"If the district court has inherent power to require the complaining witness in a prosecution for a sex crime to submit to a psychiatric examination prior to trial, it is not an abuse of discretion to deny such

Meet Star Carrier

Residents of Cordova like to read their morning paper at breakfast and Steven Bristol sees to it that they receive it early enough to do just that.

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star, Steve has received many compliments for his consistent early service and the care he takes to place the papers where customers want them.

A thirty young man, Steve deposits most of his increasing profits in a newly-opened bank account for future use.

But a paper route can provide more than work and well-earned profits — it can also mean an exciting experience now and then. It was still dark when Steve starting out on his route spotted what appeared to be two ponies on the road. Closer examination, however, revealed that the "ponies" were actually two very friendly St. Bernards who were very enthusiastic about the early morning encounter and insisted on a brief examination in the absence of a showing of good cause."

But in the case at bar, the court said the Scottsbluff County District Court rape conviction of Joe Maestas, in connection with an incident involving a 14-year-old girl, there was really nothing to consider one way or another.

"No good cause is shown here," the court said.

The court conceded there might be a good reason for some kind of examination in at least some cases.

"The suggested rule is claimed to be advisable because false accusations of such offenses are made not only because of mistake in identification, but also for purposes of blackmail and revenge, or as a result of fantasy, or as symptoms of psychosis," the court said.

But in the case before it, the court said, the testimony of the girl "does not bear any obvious indications or unreliability or mental aberration."

In other cases, the court:

—Upheld the Sarpy County District Court conviction of Ronald Hult for assault and battery.

—Upheld the finding of the Sarpy County District Court that Carol J. Brisby and Daniel Whitted were both in contempt of court in connection with a dispute over visitation rights for their one child.

—Agreed with the Richardson County District Court in its divorce decree decision that the two children of Connie Kay Broadstone and Gehling Broadstone should be in the legal custody of the county welfare director, but in the physical custody of the mother.

—Upheld the Hall County District Court conviction of Harold Huffman for forgery.

—Upheld the decision of the Adams County District Court in a Workmen's Compensation case involving Paschal McPhillips and the Knox Construction Co. Inc.

Open Letter to Roberts Home Delivery Customers

It is with regret that we notify you of the discontinuance of our home delivery service in many areas of Lincoln.

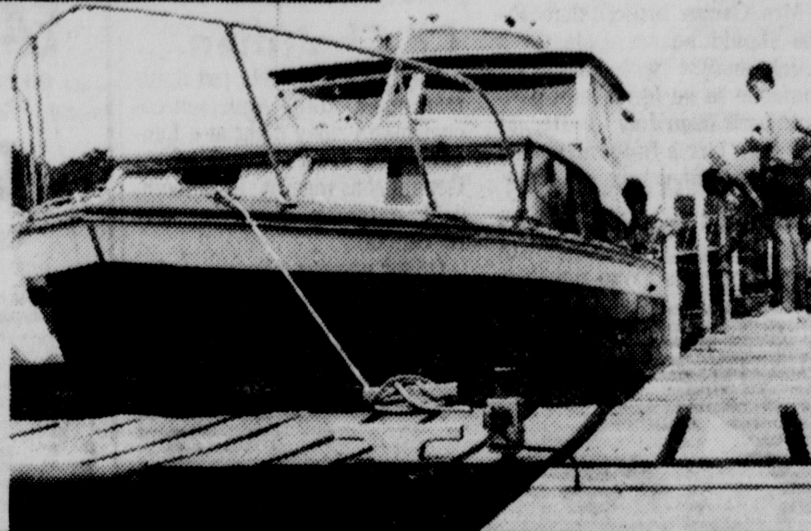

This decision was most difficult to make and based on economic necessity. I can assure you it was made after many hours of soul searching and deep thought.

Some of the routes were purchased by the route salesmen and will be operated by them as independent distributors of Roberts Dairy products. They will continue to serve you with our products and will be contacting you.

We certainly appreciate your past patronage and loyalty to Roberts Dairy Company. We will still be operating our Lincoln plant and delivering to wholesale customers, so please look for Roberts products in your local store.

The Secret That Was

	Sunday 1 Samuel 1:8-28	Monday Romans 3:21-31	Tuesday Romans 4:1-9	Wednesday Romans 5:1-11	Thursday Romans 8:1-11	Friday Galatians 3:6-25	Saturday Hebrews 10:1-17

When someone shares a secret, it's on its way to becoming no secret at all. And yet it doesn't cease to be a secret until you have shared it.

When Jesus preached in the wilderness, hundreds came miles to hear Him. They wanted to share His secret . . . the secret of God . . . the secret of Man and God.

So right there in the wilderness, it was on its way to becoming no secret at all. Except that, even today, not everyone has shared it.

Academically every intelligent person knows what Christianity is all about. But each Sunday all over this world someone is finding in church a new strength, a new purpose, a new faith. For the heart of Christ's message brings a human soul into harmony with a mighty and loving God . . . whose power gives our lives direction . . . whose concern gives our lives meaning.

The secret that was is still a secret, until YOU share it too.

Even An Infant Can Be 'Water Safe'

It is possible to begin teaching a child to swim at the early age of three months, although where babies are concerned the word 'swimming' is defined very broadly . . . and is best described as dog paddling.

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

Since the beginning of the year, 15 drownings have been reported in the state of Nebraska. Of these three of the victims were youngsters under the age of seven.

Many of the drownings that occur annually — even those that involve children — could probably be prevented if proper safety precautions were followed. And among those precautions, perhaps the most important is learning to swim.

Because very young children are usually unaware of the dangers that may be associated with water, they are the most innocent — and in a sense, the most tragic — victims of accidental drowning.

It is relatively easy for a toddler, who has developed no fear of or respect for water, to wander into a dangerous situation. An unsupervised youngster who is not able to swim, and who is attracted to the edge of a swimming pool, lake or river, is a potential statistic.

Parents then, have a special responsibility to make certain that their very young children are "water safe" — that they can keep themselves afloat in the water.

According to Ms. Luella Market, a swimming instructor at the YWCA, it is possible to begin teaching a child to swim at the very early age of three months, although where babies are concerned, the word "swimming" is defined very broadly. "We can't be concerned with form at this age," Ms. Market noted.

In the "Water Babies" classes that are offered at the YWCA, Ms. Market works with youngsters that range in age from three months to four years; and the "Novice" classes include four and five-year-olds.

Her primary concern when working with the very young is "to see that they don't develop a fear of the water." This is accomplished primarily by proceeding slowly, and by making the swimming experience fun.

The youngsters are permitted to take floatable playthings into the water with them. These objects serve two purposes: They make the child feel at home, and they give him something to swim after.

For the most part, the swimming style demonstrated by the toddlers could best be described as "dog paddling." In addition to encouraging them to do this, Ms. Market also teaches them to put their heads into the water, and, if age permits, to jump into the water and float.

In teaching a child to propel himself in the water, Ms. Market first holds him out away from her at arm's length. She then "very slowly" puts his face into the water and gently pulls him towards her.

"It is important that you don't jerk the child," she noted. "That only serves to frighten him."

After awhile, the youngsters, who are accompanied into the pool by a parent, are allowed to swim short distances between two adults.

Ms. Market admits that there is something of a communication problem with very young children. "We have to go through a lot of motions," she said.

She has found that, barring any negative experiences, babies from six months to one and one-half years old are the least afraid of the water. Consequently, this is an excellent age at which to begin teaching them.

This opinion was substantiated by Ms. Laurie Mueller who instructs similar classes at the YMCA. When asked if very young children are afraid of the water, she responded, "It depends on what kind of experience they've had. Little kids initially don't know fear, but if they've had even one frightening experience with water, that fear is really hard to overcome."

cording to Dr. Rothman, "no emotion is bad; it just is." Therefore it cannot be dictated or disciplined.

The staff tries to continually build a student's self-esteem and confidence by letting her make decisions for herself and ultimately maintain control of her own destiny. This is attained through the school's open classroom method of teaching, where there are no bells, schedules, or grades.

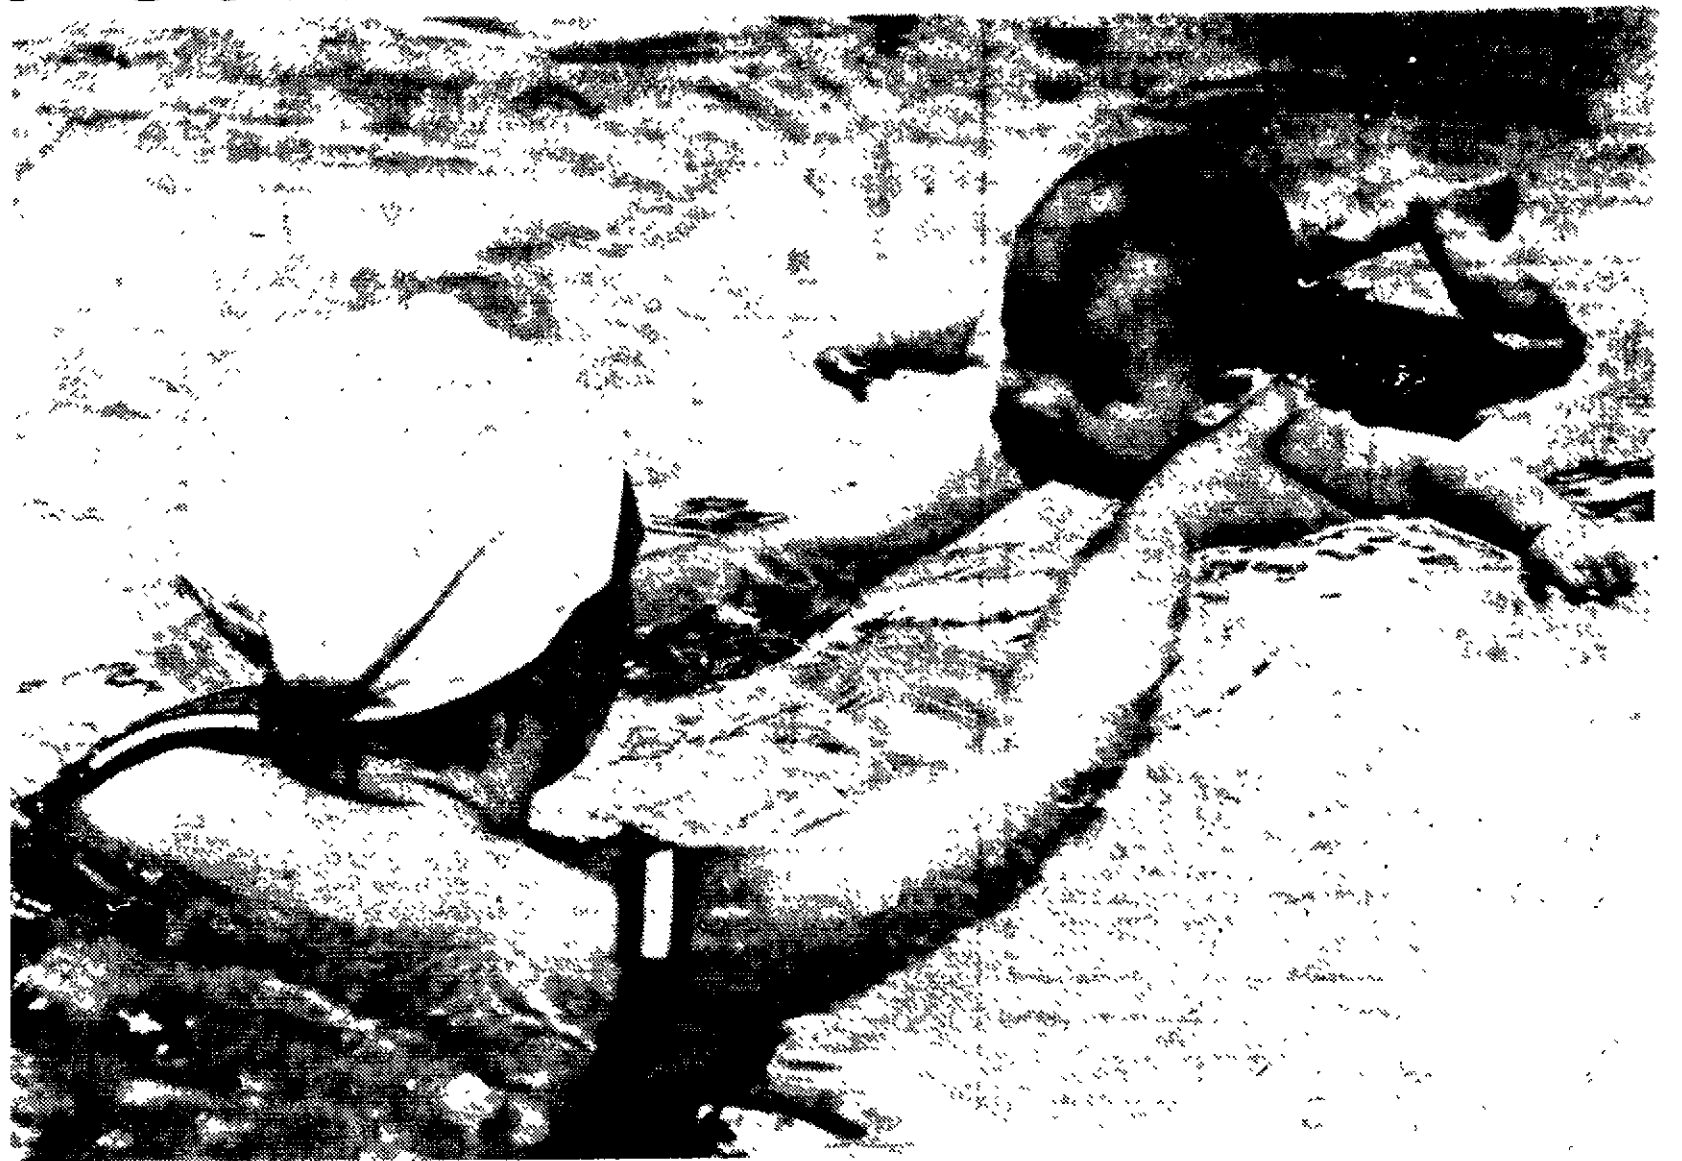

Each morning the student meets with her advisor and decides which subject or subjects she will study for the day. In this manner the student will involve herself in topics which are interesting to her. However, she is constantly reminded that, though she may be primarily interested in dressmaking, beauty culture or music, there are certain requirements which must be met to receive a high school diploma in the State of New York — among them the ability to read at the eighth grade level.

As the teachers realize the life-styles and environment of the students is extremely different from their own, they learn to accept the coarse behavior and language of the teenagers.

By the same token, the students, as they learn to discipline themselves and attend school every day, come face-to-face with the reality of adult responsibilities and the impact of their actions on themselves and others.

According to Dr. Rothman, many adults are unable to relate to a child on a person-to-person basis, simply because they are afraid of losing their authority and dignity. She went on to say that these values should be internalized and, if they can be destroyed by an indignant youngster, they could not have been strongly instilled characteristics.

Dr. Rothman repeated the principle of individual decision-making in reference to the recent proposed constitutional amendments to the U.S. Supreme Court ruling on abortion.

BABES IN WATER . . . Brian Story, 5 months, shows his swimming form.

According to Gary Cooper who serves as Center and Aquatics Director for the Lincoln Department of Parks and Recreation, this fact makes it imperative that the child's initial experiences in the water be of a positive nature.

Both Cooper and Mike McCann, who teaches swimming at Hillcrest Country Club, agreed that swimming comes somewhat naturally to toddlers. "They are natural swimmers to the extent that they have a natural buoyancy," observed McCann.

Given this natural buoyancy, the instructor needs only to teach the child the motions, McCann continued.

Is there anything that parents can do at home to help their child learn to swim? "Definitely," replied Ms. Mueller. "It's a good thing for parents to work with children prior to the actual swimming experience."

This "at-home" instruction may include playing with the child in a wading pool or even the bathtub, according to Ms. Mueller. She suggests that the child be taught proper breathing by allowing him to blow bubbles in water that has been brought up to his face in the palms of his hands.

The youngster can also be allowed to splash water on the parent and on himself, in order to become accustomed to the idea of having water on his face.

However, caution must be exercised in both of these activities so that the child does not suddenly swallow water and become frightened, emphasized Ms. Mueller.

In a book entitled "Teaching An Infant to Swim," noted swimming instructor Virginia Hunt Newman has said that parents are, in a sense, natural teachers because the child has learned to depend on them.

As long as they make certain that the child is comfortable (i.e., that his suit fits and that the water is not too cold), and that he is not afraid; and as long as they practice what she considers to be the three most important procedures — demonstration, repetition and praise — parents can be effective instructors, Ms. Newman has stated.

Gene Cotter, who teaches swimming at the Lincoln Country Club and at Lincoln High School,

He would prefer to leave swimming instruction to experienced professionals. Although he did agree that, if extreme care is taken, parents can proceed with the practices mentioned above.

Swimming lessons for very young children are available at a number of locations in Lincoln. The YM and YWCA offer sessions at their central offices, and Hillcrest and the Lincoln Country Club sponsor instruction for the children of members.

Red Cross swimming lessons, which are given in co-operation with the Parks and Recreation Department, are open only to youngsters who have completed the second grade or above. However, according to Cooper, the Lincoln Swim Club offers lessons at Woods Pool for children five years of age and older.

Cooper also noted that the only restriction on children swimming at the city pools is that any youngster seven years of age or younger must be accompanied by an adult in order to gain admission to the pool area. "Beyond that, there are no restrictions," he noted; and the supervised youngster is permitted to swim in either the regular or the "baby" pools.

Cursers, Teacher Beaters Attend Livingston School

Women Flock To X-rated Movies

DEAR ABBY Since this is anything but complimentary to women I'm sure you won't print it, but I'll write anyway.

When an X-rated movie comes to town, the women flock to see it in droves. Many come by themselves. I'm not referring to just mildly pornographic films. I'm talking about the really rough ones which leave nothing to the imagination.

I've attended such movies and I notice the women's reactions are no different than the men's. Occasionally someone will walk out before the end of the film, but strangely enough, it's the women who usually stay until the very end. How do you feel about such movies?

I have always heard and read that women are not turned on by the visual the way men are. If that's true, what are they doing there?

Care to comment?

MADE MY POINT
DEAR MADE: So you've made your point, the point being that you suspect that women are just as "turned on" by the visual as the men are. Could be. But most people flock to X-rated movies (at least once) because they are curious — not necessarily because they want to be "turned on." And if the morals squad would just ignore them instead of staging raids, confiscating film, and arresting exhibitors and patrons, thereby giving these trashy movies millions of dollars worth of free advertising in the press, they would die a slow death.

DEAR ABBY I would like your opinion of this situation: A girl of marrying age (18-20) leaves town for an abortion. This is a family secret — or so she thinks. She returns and begins planning a big formal church wedding — white gown, veil, and all.

Are we, her friends who are wise to all this, supposed to act dumb? Should we buy her shower and wedding gifts and dance at her wedding as tho nothing had happened?

I don't like to be made a fool of while she and her family think nobody else knows the whole story.

HATES HYPOCRITES

DEAR HATES: If you would feel less "a fool" were you to tell her that you know the whole story, tell her. But if you buy her shower and wedding gifts and dance at her wedding, she might mistake you for a friend, so unless you identify yourself, you're also a hypocrite.

She added, "The whole women's movement involves women, who are considered a minority and powerless group, struggling to be heard as individuals. The U.S. tradition is that white males pass laws for the minorities, such as women, blacks and Indians, and then expect them' to be grateful."

The personnel of Livingston School believe that a person's own personal values cannot be imposed on others—even teenagers. Dr. Rothman contends that whether or not a person decides to be a parent "has nothing to do with someone else's morality or religion."

Women Flock To X-rated Movies

DEAR ABBY: Since this is anything but complimentary to women I'm sure you won't print it, but I'll write anyway.

When an X-rated movie comes to town, the women flock to see it in droves. Many come by themselves. I'm not referring to just mildly pornographic films, I'm talking about the really rough ones which leave nothing to the imagination.

I've attended such movies and I notice the women's reactions are no different than the men's. Occasionally someone will walk out before the end of the film, but strangely enough, it's the women who usually stay until the very end. How do you feel about such movies?

I have always heard and read that women are not turned on by the visual the way men are. If that's true, what are they doing there?

Care to comment?

MADE MY POINT
DEAR MADE: So you've made your point; the point being that you suspect that women are just as "turned on" by the visual as the men are. Could be. But most people flock to X-rated movies (at least once) because they are curious — not necessarily because they want to be "turned on." And if the morals squad would just ignore them instead of staging raids, confiscating film, and arresting exhibitors and patrons, thereby giving these trashy movies millions of dollars worth of free advertising in the press, they would die a slow death.

DEAR ABBY I would like your opinion of this situation: A girl of marrying age (18-20) leaves town for an abortion. This is a family secret — or so she thinks. She returns and begins planning a big formal church wedding — white gown, veil, and all.

Are we, her friends who are wise to all this, supposed to act dumb? Should we buy her shower and wedding gifts and dance at her wedding as tho nothing had happened?

I don't like to be made a fool of while she and her family think nobody else knows the whole story.

HATES HYPOCRITES

DEAR HATES: If you would feel less "a fool" were you to tell her that you know the whole story, tell her. But if you buy her shower and wedding gifts and dance at her wedding, she might mistake you for a friend, so unless you identify yourself, you're also a hypocrite.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆
Forecast For Saturday
Aries can be aggressive, independent, inventive, peace-loving. Gemini is flexible, curious, adaptable. Cancer can build and conserve, while Libra can create, desire, and seek together those who hold opposing views. Taurus can collect, meditate and make a stand against tremendous odds. Gemini is flexible enough to fight or retreat, depending upon mood and circumstance. Each of the zodiac signs displays unique reactions in connection with peace and fighting, building and tearing down, loving and living. I would be interested in your views and experiences.

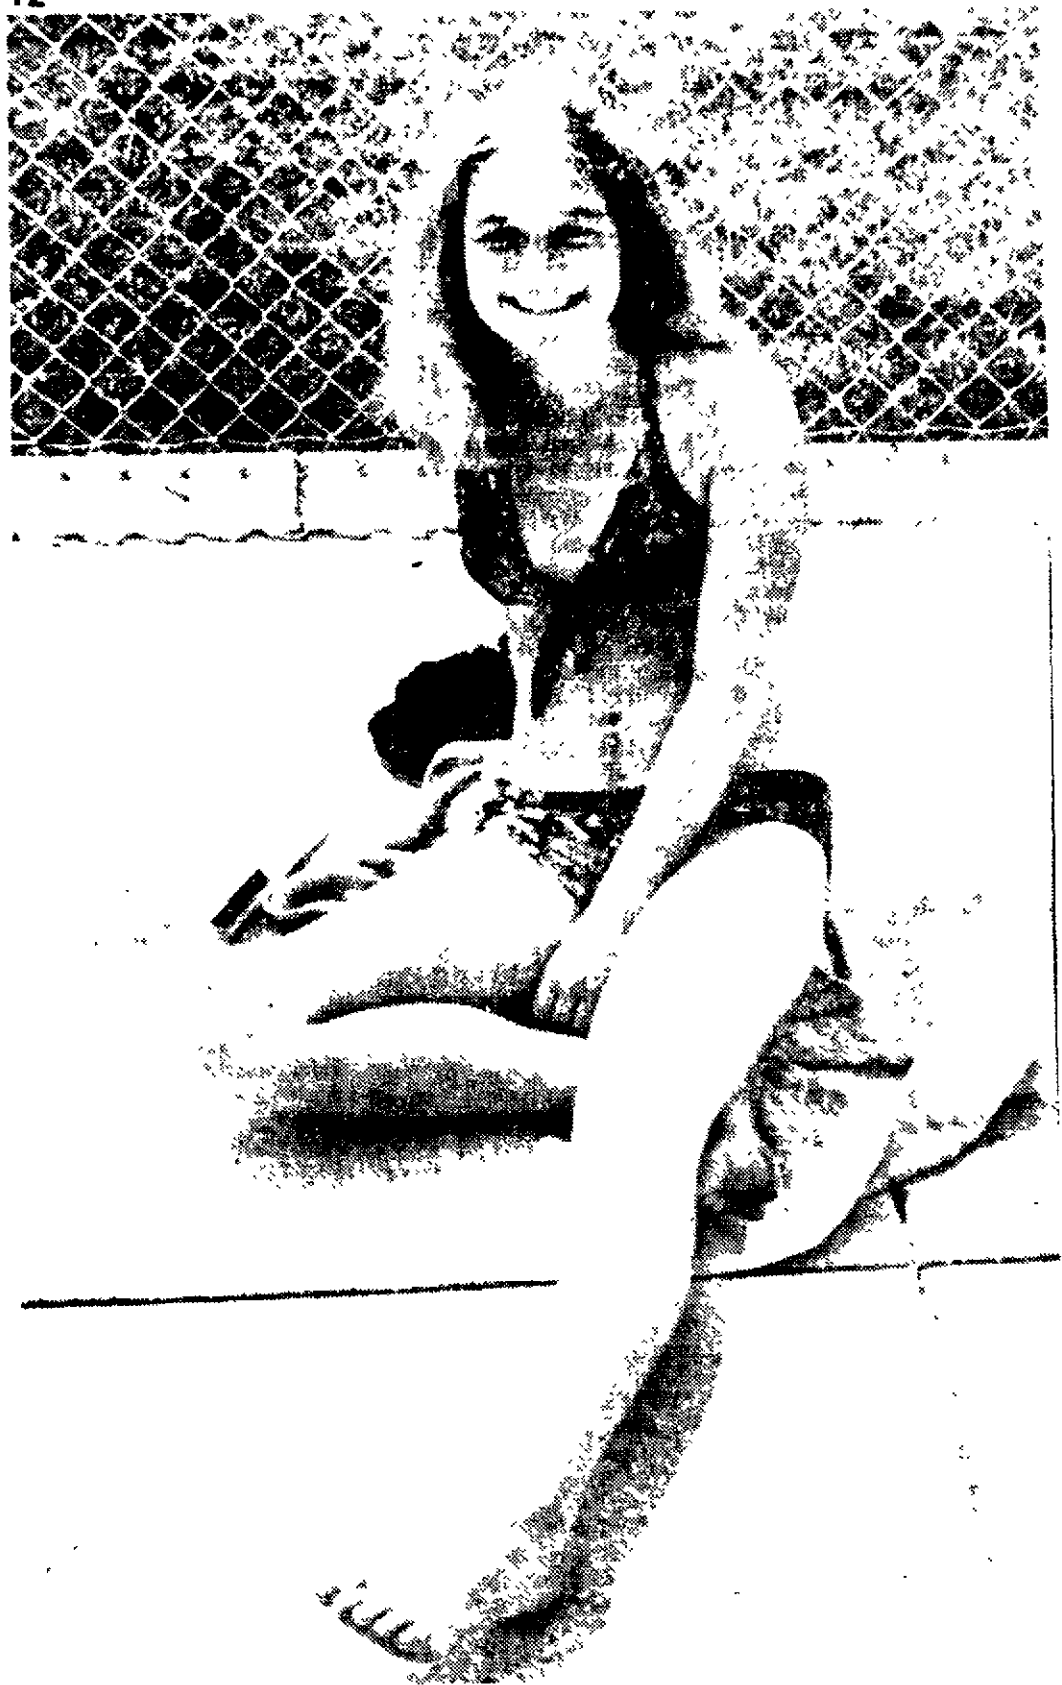

ARIES (March 21-April 19): What was holding you back is removed. Could be smooth sailing if you make peace at home. Cancer individual plans featured role. Emphasis is on security, property, obtaining legal green light. Protect assets. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Highlight: Heredity, sense of humor, help. Too social event could lead to meeting new people, to eventual travel and even an outlet for creative abilities. When you're hot you're hot — so more than 125 youngsters took the plunge to cool off in the new Antelope Pool which opened its gates for the first time Friday.

Probably the happiest kids were three girls who arrived at the pool in time to help Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf cut the scarlet ribbon decking the yellow doors in the dedication ceremony.

The mayor told the girls, "We're going to let you in free because you were here first and even came here yesterday and couldn't get in."

The Antelope Pool, at 22nd and N. replaces the old Munny Pool which was the first public pool built in the city.

Constructed in 1920, the most unusual feature of that facility was its gradual sloping bottom toward the center of the pool.

Gary Cooper, swimming pool supervisor, estimated that the L-shaped pool will hold 320 swimmers at one time.

Built at a cost of $229,000, the city put up $64,000, the State Game and Parks Commission contributed $55,000, while the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation gave $110,000.

Officials of the BOR and the commission were on hand Friday to participate in the dedication, as were members of the Parks and Recreation Board and the City Council.

When Glenn Tiedt, assistant BOR regional director from Denver, presented Schwartzkopf with a certificate, the mayor thanked the agency for the money and quipped, "We hope those funds keep rolling in."

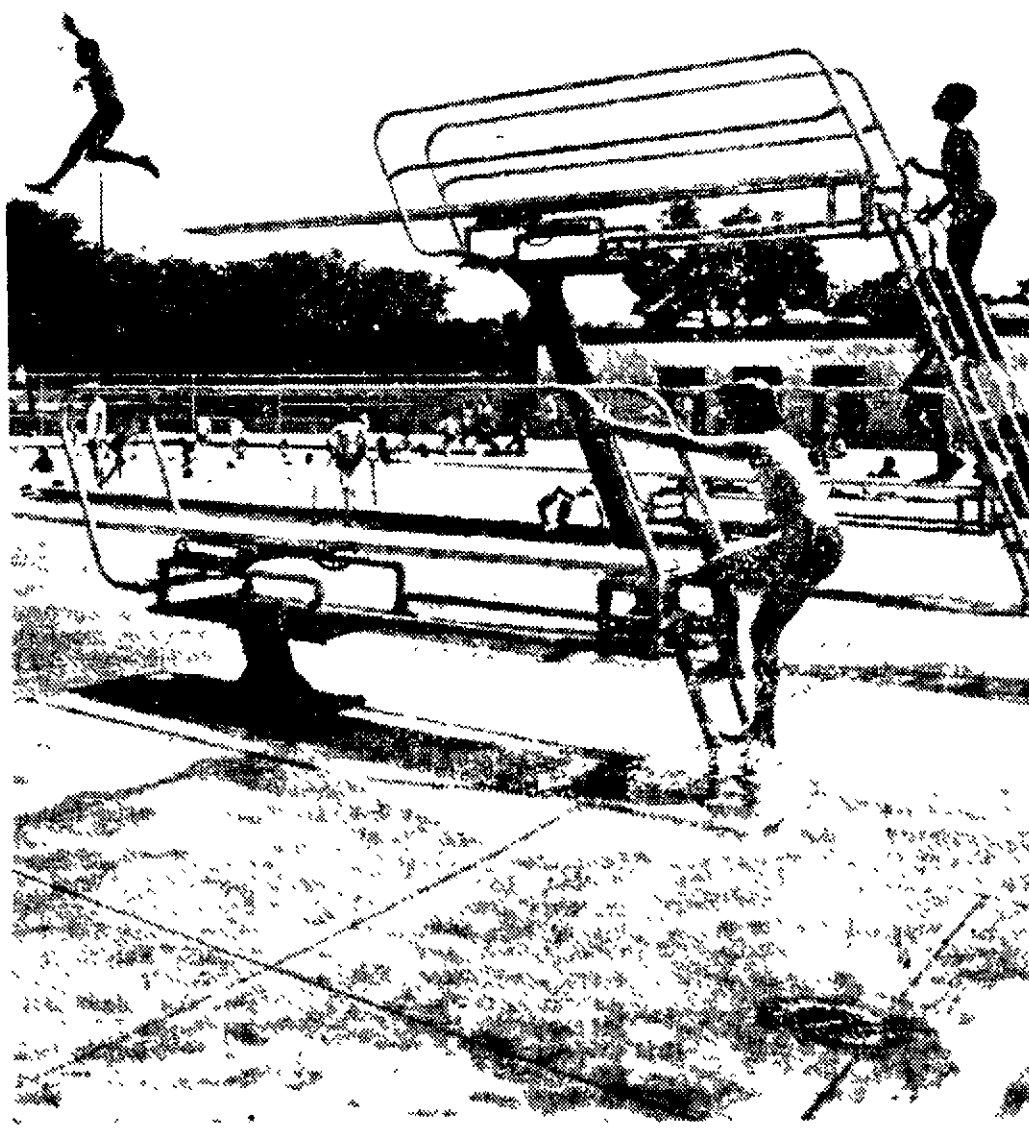

And he put in a plug for a proposed golf course for east Lincoln.

The certificate notes that the pool received funds under the Legacy of Parks program.

Antelope Pool will be open from 12 30 p m to 9 p m through the swimming season.

Most Editorial Reaction To Indianapolis 500 Adverse

... RACE CALLED ROMAN CIRCUS, LUNACY, SAVAGE ABERRATION BY NEWSPAPERS ACROSS COUNTRY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The rain-plagued, tragedymarked 1973 Indianapolis 500-mile automobile race was termed "a Roman circus," "lunacy" and a "savage aberration" Friday in biting editorial reaction across the country.

Many of the nation's leading newspapers urged changes and drastic reductions in speed to eliminate the flaming crashes. There was a strong voice for elimination of the race altogether. Even the defenders of the event acknowledged that a review was called for after this year's injuries and deaths.

One driver, Art Pollard, was killed in a practice run during the trials. In the race itself, twice postponed because of rain, two drivers were seriously injured in fiery crashes. A pit crewman was killed. A number of spectators suffered injuries from flying debris.

"The Indianapolis 500 has begun to resemble nothing more than a Roman circus, where the principal entertainment was throwing Christians to the lions," commented the Charlotte Observer. "For safety and to restore the sporting aspects of the race, it would be wise to put limits on engine and body design.

"Indy's old brickyard is illdesigned to accommodate the greater speed. It has been said to see such a genuine bit of Americana degenerating into a spectacle of organized death and destruction."

Okker Upsets Smith

PARIS (AP) — Tom Okker, taking advantage of poor serves by top-seeded Stan Smith in the final game, eliminated the American from the French Open Tennis Championship Friday in a rain-plagued five-set match played over two days.

Okker, of The Netherlands, beating the pro star from Pasadena, Calif., for the first time in five years, advanced to the quarter-finals with the 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, 3-6, 6-4 victory.

In a women's singles match, also carried over from Thursday because of rain, Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., gained the semifinals by beating Helga Masthoff of West Germany 6-3, 6-3.

Most of Friday's scheduled matches were washed out and those that were played took place in a steady rain on slippery clay courts. Smith, trailing 2-1 in the fourth set when the match resumed Friday, evened it by taking the last three games of the set while dropping only one point.

The two men exchanged service breaks three times in the final set and Smith was trailing 5-4 and serving.

Smith, who has won more than $150,000 this year, double-faulted for 15-15 and 30-30 but later in the game saved two match points.

Then, with Smith charging the net, Okker passed him to once again move to within match point. It was here that Smith double-faulted again—and the match was over.

Men's singles, fourth round
Tom Okker (Netherlands) beat Stan Smith (Pasadena, Calif.) 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.
The Nastase Romanica beat Francois Jauffret (France) 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.
Women's singles, quarter-finals
Chris Evert (Fort Lauderdale, Fla.) beat Helga Masthoff (West Germany) 6-3, 6-3.
Françoise Dürr (France) beat Odile de Roubin (France) 6-3, 6-1.
Evaone Goolagong (Australia) beat Martina Navratilova (Czechoslovakia) 7-6, 6-4.

Eagles, Gabriel Reach Accord

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles have come to terms with Roman Gabriel and have asked the Los Angeles Rams the price tag on the disgruntled National Football League quarterback.

Gabriel met Friday with Eagles' head coach Mike McCormack, assured him his sore arm of 1972 was a thing of the past and agreed to come here if the Rams will make a deal.

McCormack said he talked with Los Angeles General Manager Don Klosterman Thursday about the Rams price for Gabriel, an 11-year veteran and the NFL's most valuable player in 1969.

McCormack said of his confab with Gabriel, "We had a very good meeting and we are instituting trade talks with the Los Angeles Rams."

The New York Times, in an editorial headed "Speedway Slaughter," said the fatalities could not be categorized as accidental deaths.

"What happened on the infamous Speedway has come to be a routine form of homicide," the Times added. "Such lethal circuses are in no sense justified by their morbid popularity. The prime issue is that of public safety and public morality (concern for human life).

"The 1973 debacle at Indianapolis deserves to be turned into tombstone and epitaph of a savage aberration in the world of sports."

The Indianapolis Star said officials and decision-makers should start doing some very hard thinking about next year's race, adding: "They should be thinking about the disintegration of cars in accidents, about flaming fuel gushing from ruptured tanks, about the vulnerability of spectators at the edge of the track.

"To sum it up, there is need for some deep attention to the safety of the race. It's essential, we think, to maintaining the standing of the '500' as the big one in auto racing."

The Indianapolis News also urged serious study of the present high speeds and the method of starting the race. "We hope its aftermath brings answers that will make this great spectacle safer than ever," the paper added.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat called the Indy 500 "a mighty sick sports event. Public safety and common sense demand that the Indy promoters and participants make changes," the paper commented. "An event designed during the balloon age is not geared to jet-age performances."

The Kansas City Times made note of the controversy surrounding the only track and the three-abreast start as well as the 61 deaths, including nine spectators, since the race started in 1911.

"Considering racing's growing popularity, there will no doubt always be men willing to dare the risks for the rewards," the Times said, "and many thousands to watch them do it. But the side of human nature so exposed has to be cause for sorrow and regret."

The Cleveland Plain-Dealer commented:

"In a hundred years, or even 10, scarcely anything will have less significance than the name of the winner of the 1973 Indianapolis 500 auto race. To put it plainly, nobody will give a damn. But in the process of deciding that winner's name, two men were killed and two maimed, and a half-dozen spectators were injured. That's too great a price. This lunacy ought to stop."

The Washington Post, calling attention to America's fascination for speed, said: "The tragedy is not so much that we set aside race tracks where a few people get killed but that we make race tracks of our highways where tens of thousands get killed... Speed is glorified and romanticized. Who needs that?"

The Chicago Tribune called for an end to the event. "It would be a triumph of common sense over fanaticism if the Indy 500 were ended. Recently there have been accidents almost every year. Isn't it time to quit—before the record grows even worse?"

Sports writers and sports columnists joined in the outcry, taking varying positions.

Jim Murray of the Los Angeles Times said: "I swear, this place has set fire to more vehicles—and people—than Hitler's armor."

Dick Young of the New York Daily News insisted auto racing is not sport. "I just don't like them bloodying up our fun-and-games pages with their pseudo-sport."

Jack Griffin of the Chicago Sun-Times wrote: "The race seems lately to have an amateur touch in an arena where it can be deadly." His cohort, Robert Marcus of the Chicago Tribune, urged: "Let's cut down on those engines and at least reduce the size of the wings. Let's do it now."

Mike Kupper of the Milwaukee Journal observed that "It is the blind reverence for tradition that has put auto racing on the hot seat."

"When tradition starts contributing heavily to death and serious injury," he added, "there is no place left for it."

'Best Golf' Propels Thompson

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Leonard Thompson, a 26-year-old who joined the pro tour last year, tied the course record with a seven-under-par 65 to take a two-stroke second round lead Friday in the $200,000 Kemper Open with a sizzling 12-under-par 132.

"It may be the best I've ever played—certainly it's the best for two consecutive rounds," said Thompson, a Lumberton, N.C., resident who had tied for third at 67 in the first round.

"Normally, anytime I can break 70 I'm happy," he said. Thompson is 31st on the money list this year with $38,040 and his best finish of the season was a tie for fourth at Houston. He toured the 7,219-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course with eight birdies and a bogey Friday.

Runnersup were Lanny Wadkins and Ken Still, a 13-year PGA tour veteran confined mostly to the mediocre ranks recently, at 10-under 134. Wadkins, No. 4 in money winnings this year, had a 68 Friday, while Still shot his second straight five-under 67.

Alone at 135 was first round leader Tom Weiskopf, who managed a 70 Friday to go with his Thursday 65 despite a couple of bogeys.

Charles Coody shot a 66 Friday and stood at 136, eight under par.

Next in line, at 138, were Larry Ziegler, George Johnson, Art Wall Jr. and Lou Graham. The field at 139 included Lee Trevino, Dave Hill, Dan Sikes, 61-year-old Sam Snead, Bert Greene, Mac McLendon, Rod Funseth, Wayne Yates, Al Geiberger and Chi-Chi Rodriguez.

Thompson, starting on the back nine, sank 10-foot putts for birdies on the 10th and 13th holes, bogeyed the 360-yard, par four, No. 16, then struck with another birdie on No. 17 after hitting a four iron shot to within a foot of the cup.

Turning the corner two under, he sank 15-foot putts for birdies on No. 1 and No. 2 and 20-footers for birdies on No. 6 and No. 9.

"I played a good solid round," he said. "I made a lot of putts. You have to make a lot of putts when you shoot 65."

Thompson said lessons he had received from Jim Colbert a few weeks back had made the biggest difference in his game and said he was playing more relaxed this year.

"The greens are putting fairly well and I'm making a few," said Still. He required only 26 putts for the 18 holes Friday.

Thirty One Jewels Triumphs

By RANDY EICKHOFF

Star Sports Writer
Omaha — There wasn't much doubt that Thirty One Jewels was going to win the Lady Sponsors' Stakes after the field of eight turned for the homestretch, of the 5-furlong spring as the 2-year-old filly bolted to the lead and won driving by eight lengths.

But Thirty One Jewels' trainer, John C. Geary of Clayton, N.M., missed the presentation in the Ak-Sar-Ben winner's circle having suffered an apparent heart attack the morning of the race Friday and was rushed to Bergan-Mercy Hospital.

"They think it was a heart attack," Lola Geary, his wife, said following the victory. "But they don't know yet. They still have some tests to do. He doesn't even know who won the race yet because the doctors won't let him have a radio in his room."

Thirty One Jewels, purchased by Geary as a 31st wedding anniversary present for his wife last year for $9,000 at the eight lengths by Prize Wagon.

Getting in at third top-weight of 119 pounds will be Delbert Rathman's Rideniron, who earned more than $23,000 last season in his 2-year-old campaign. Rideniron, has been unable to match his nifty efforts of last season and has one third in five out this year, including a sixth in the Good Neighbor.

Another strong competitor is John McCormack's Wooden Marine, who has breezed to three straight victories here by margins of 1 1/2-lengths, 10-lengths and 6-lengths. Among those victories was a 10-length romp in the $15,800 Countess Stakes here on May 11 over 5 1/2-furlongs.

Wayne Davidson's Wind 'N Sage has captured three wins and one third in five out this season for winnings of $9,952. She upset heavily-favored Hempen's Hawa in her last outing last Friday.

Other entrants and their weights. Paul M. Kemlong's Native Record (117); Howdys Prize (117); Lil Terry (117); Felix Beda's Nebraska Harvest (115). R.P. Jones' Artist Chance (115), the M.H. Van Berg Stables' Tami Jo Van (110) and Tinkertik (110).

the turn as Me and Connie and Thirty One Jewels came around hard on the outside

Me and Connie, victorious in her last four starts and Bobbing Ro, who carried a record of three wins and one third out of five starts into the race battled briefly for the lead, but then fell back as Thirty One Jewels, under a hand ride at the time by Lewis, swept by the duo. Me and Connie finished a neck ahead of Fleeting Triumph for second while Bobbing Ro faltered in the stretch run.

"I might have used my whip once or twice to get her started," Lewis said, "but when we started around the turn for the stretch I just let her out and she went."

There was some doubt about the filly, however, as she backed off in her training after being shipped in from New Mexico

"She was handling a little sluggish," Lewis said, "but I knew she would come around in time for the race. I did worry some about the rest of the field. That has to be one of the top 2-year-old fields for any race."

Thirty One Jewels' time was worth $8,786.25 to Mrs. Geary which boosted the product of Jacinto out of Lady of Action earnings to $68,267 for the year, while earning $20, $30, and $250 to backers in the crowd of 11,732.

"She's the only horse I've ever owned," a delighted Mrs. Geary said. "Now I have to go to the hospital and tell John about it."

Me and Connie, by In Reality out of Song of Glory, returned $3.20 and $2.60 to backers and $3,035.25 to owner Patricia Blass of Little Rock, Ark. Kenneth Opstein's Fleeting Triumph earned $2,236 and returned $3.00 to show.

Thirty One Jewels' time was 58.3-5, covering the quarter in 21.3-5 and was caught in .45-2-5 at the half over a fast track in her last outing, the Futurity. She set the Sunland Park five furlong standard of :56.3-5, but was one and two-fifths of a second off by Golden Curra in 1962

Okker Upsets Smith

PARIS (AP) — Tom Okker, taking advantage of poor serves by top-seeded Stan Smith in the final game, eliminated the American from the French Open Tennis Championship Friday in a rain-plagued five-set match played over two days.

Okker, of The Netherlands, beating the pro star from Pasadena, Calif., for the first time in five years, advanced to the quarter-finals with the 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, 3-6, 6-4 victory.

In a women's singles match, also carried over from Thursday because of rain, Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., gained the semifinals by beating Helga Masthoff of West Germany 6-3, 6-3.

Most of Friday's scheduled matches were washed out and those that were played took place in a steady rain on slippery clay courts. Smith, trailing 2-1 in the fourth set when the match resumed Friday, evened it by taking the last three games of the set while dropping only one point.

The two men exchanged service breaks three times in the final set and Smith was trailing 5-4 and serving.

Smith, who has won more than $150,000 this year, double-faulted for 15-15 and 30-30 but later in the game saved two match points.

Then, with Smith charging the net, Okker passed him to once again move to within match point. It was here that Smith double-faulted again—and the match was over.

Eagles, Gabriel Reach Accord

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles have come to terms with Roman Gabriel and have asked the Los Angeles Rams the price tag on the disgruntled National Football League quarterback.

Gabriel met Friday with Eagles' head coach Mike McCormack, assured him his sore arm of 1972 was a thing of the past and agreed to come here if the Rams will make a deal.

McCormack said he talked with Los Angeles General Manager Don Klosterman Thursday about the Rams price for Gabriel, an 11-year veteran and the NFL's most valuable player in 1969.

McCormack said of his confab with Gabriel, "We had a very good meeting and we are instituting trade talks with the Los Angeles Rams."

NCAA Plans To Appeal 1.6 Ruling

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association plans to appeal a federal court decision against application of the NCAA's 1.6 rule.

"The NCAA believes it as an incongruous decision to hold a reasonable and valid rule cannot be enforced in a reasonable manner," Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said Friday.

The U.S. District Court at Sacramento, Calif., entered a preliminary injunction last week against application of the NCAA rule, which required that athletic candidates predict a C-minus average for college work based on high school grades and testing.

At its annual convention earlier this year, the NCAA revoked the rule.

The federal court decision came in response to a suit filed by two students at California State University-Sacramento. The NCAA's interest in appealing apparently was due primarily to the sizable number of other students to whom the ruling may apply.

Byers said the NCAA was advised by counsel the ruling did not render the requirements of the rule unconstitutional.

"Although the injunction is limited to the eligibility of the two students at California State-Sacramento, the member colleges of the NCAA cannot effectively regulate intercollegiate athletes if this decision is permitted to become a rule of general application," he said.

Byers said the NCAA appeal, to be filed with the 9th U.S. Court of Appeals at San Francisco, will seek to reconfirm the right of colleges and universities to adopt reasonable regulation for the conduct of intercollegiate athletics.

'Best Golf' Propels Thompson

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Leonard Thompson, a 26-year-old who joined the pro tour last year, tied the course record with a seven-under-par 65 to take a two-stroke second round lead Friday in the $200,000 Kemper Open with a sizzling 12-under-par 132.

"It may be the best I've ever played—certainly it's the best for two consecutive rounds," said Thompson, a Lambertown, N.C., resident who had tied for third at 67 in the first round.

"Normally, anytime I can break 70 I'm happy," he said. Thompson is 31st on the money list this year with $38,040 and his best finish of the season was a tie for fourth at Houston. He toured the 7,219-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course with eight birdies and a bogey Friday.

Mills Leading Golf Classic

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Mary Mills took advantage of an early starting time Friday to shoot a four-under-par 69 for the first-round lead in the rain-delayed $100,000 Sealy-Faberge Women's Golf Classic.

The 33-year-old native of Laurel, Miss., nearly equalled her three-under par on the par 37 back nine Thursday with a 35 and fired a two-under 34 on the front nine holes.

Miss Mills was one of three golfers who scored well when the field of 56 women professionals attempted to complete the initial round Thursday which was postponed due to a rainstorm.

Play was suspended again Friday when rain continued for one hour before more than half the field could finish.

The tournament was originally scheduled for 72 holes, but was trimmed to 54 after the delayed first round.

Miss Mills held a one-shot lead over Sandra Haynie. Miss Haynie, at 70, was one shot ahead of Kathy Cornelius.

Thirty One Jewels Triumphs

Hollywood sales, has won five straight races, the previous one to the Lady Sponsors' being the $114,282 Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park. Her record is now five starts and five wins.

"We didn't know what to make of the field," jockey Don Lewis said, following the race. "They have a lot of good fillies in there."

"But this one is really exceptional. She is the most outstanding filly I've ever ridden. I just can't think of any words to describe her and I was the one who broke her last winter," he added.

This is the third straight year Lewis has won the Lady Sponsors'.

There was some doubt prior to the start of the race as to Thirty One Jewels' ability to come from off the pace, having set the pace in each of her last outings.

"That doesn't mean much," Lewis said. "She can run anywhere."

Bobbing Bo broke on top and carried the lead throughout the first half of the race, then lost on the turn as Me and Connie and Thirty One Jewels came around hard on the outside.

Me and Connie, victorious in her last four starts and Bobbing Ro, who carried a record of three wins and one third out of five starts into the race battled briefly for the lead, but then fell back as Thirty One Jewels, under a hand ride at the time by Lewis, swept by the duo. Me and Connie finished a neck ahead of Fleeting Triumph for second while Bobbing Ro faltered in the stretch run.

"I might have used my whip once or twice to get her started," Lewis said, "but when we started around the turn for the stretch, I just let her out and she went."

There was some doubt about the filly, however, as she backed off in her training after being shipped in from New Mexico.

"She was handling a little sluggish," Lewis said, "but I knew she would come around in time for the race. I did worry some about the rest of the field. That has to be one of the top 2-

Wood's Streak Ends As Milwaukee Prevails

Associated Press

The Milwaukee Brewers stopped fabulous Wilbur Wood's winning streak at five games, handing the Chicago White Sox a 5-3 defeat Friday night.

Wood, the majors' top winner with a 13-4 record, didn't last past the fifth inning as the Brewers raked the star knuckleball pitcher for 11 hits, including a home run by George Scott.

Scott also had a double and knocked two runs and helped the Brewers take a 4-1 lead after five against Wood, who had won 12 of his last 13 games before Friday night.

Ken Berry hit a three-run homer and Bill Singer posted his ninth victory with ninth-inning relief help, leading California over New York. The Angels ripped into New York starter Mike Kekich in the third inning when Billy Grabarkewitz and Vada Pinson singled and Berry sliced his homer into the right field stands for the Angel's winning runs.

Carlton Fisk and Rico Petrocelli belted home runs, helping Boston beat Oakland. The loss was the sixth in the last seven games for the defending World Champions.

Mickey Stanley and Frank

Howard each drove in three runs, giving Joe Coleman support for his 10th victory, in Detroit's success over Minnesota.

Kurt Bevacqua, obtained from Cleveland in a trade last November, hit his first home run

Smalley Aids USC Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roy Smalley slammed a two-run homer, tripled, then scored what proved the winning run as defending national champion Southern California edged Los Angeles State 4-3 Friday in the first game of the NCAA Dist. 8 baseball playoffs.

The second game of the best of three series was scheduled Saturday between USC, the NCAA champions the last three seasons, and Pacific Coast Athletic Association champion LA State.

Southern Cal now has a 45-11 season mark to 31-19 for Los Angeles.

Lincoln's 1973 American Legion baseball program starts Saturday at Sherman Field with a pair of games.

Franklin Co. will square off with Judds Brothers in the 5:30 of the season in the eighth to give Kansas City its victory over the Indians.

Ralph Garr hit a two-run homer and pinch-hitter Dick Dietz singled across the go-ahead tally in a five-run seventh, carrying Atlanta over Chicago.

Kichie Hebler drove in four runs with a homer, double and sacrifice fly and Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen added homers, powering Pittsburgh past Cincinnati.

Feuerbach Equals Record

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Al Feuerbach, the giant with the golden arm, tied the U.S. Track and Field Federation shot put record of teammate George Woods Friday night with a heave of 69 feet, 9 1/4 inches.

Woods, like Feuerbach representing the Pacific Coast Track Club, set the federation record a year ago.

It was first believed that Feuerbach had broken the meet record because the program listed Randy Matson of the Texas Raiders, with a toss of 68-13 1/4 in 1971, as holding the existing record. A spokesman said the program was in error.

Feuerbach, former Emporia, Kan., State star who has his eye on 72 feet, broke Matson's long-standing world record at San Jose, Calif., two weeks ago with a 71-7 toss. Matson's record was 71-5 1/2.

Nebraska's Roger Chadwick qualified for the Saturday finals (8:15 p.m.) in the 880 with a 1:49.9 in his semifinal run. He needs 1:49.5 to qualify for next week's NCAA meet at Baton Rouge, La.

NU's Gary Gressett was eliminated from further 120 high hurdle competition by running fifth in his trial heat in the time of 1:41. Only the top four went on to further competition.

Savage Remains Critical

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Race driver Swede Savage remained in critical condition for the third straight day Friday and driver Salt Walther still was listed as serious at Methodist Hospital, where both were being treated for injuries suffered in crashes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Savage, 26, Santa Ana, Calif., was severely burned and suffered other injuries in a fiery crash during the 500-mile auto race Wednesday.

Three Wingate Ind., spectators who were burned when Walther crashed—Sue Rankin and Diane Dazey, both 15, and Dorothy West, 51—remained hospitalized, the girls serious, the woman in fair condition.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary, the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes winner, turned in a sparkling workout at Belmont Park Friday in preparation for the June 9th running of the Belmont Stakes.

With jockey Ron Turcotte in the saddle and owner Mrs. Helen Twedy as well as trainer Lucien Laurin looking on, the bright red chestnut sped a mile in the fast time of 1:34.4 and pulled up in 1:48.35 for 1 1/4 miles.

Getting into high gear rapidly, Secretariat turned in the following fractions for each eighth of a mile: :12, :22.4-5, :35 1-5, :47, 1:11, 1:22.4-5, 1:34.4-5

Secretariat seeks to become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation swept the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes in 1948 in the 1 1/2 mile Belmont Stakes, the longest and oldest event in the series.

District Finals Set In Illinois

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) — Southern Illinois whipped Miami of Ohio, 8-1, Friday and will play Big Ten champion Minnesota Saturday for the NCAA District 4 major college baseball title.

SIU and Miami, clashing in the third and last semifinal game of the day, were tied 1-1 in the seventh inning when pinch-runner Ken Kral stole home to give the Salukis a 2-1 lead.

Permit Drawing On June 18

A drawing for big game permits for the 1973 season will be June 18 for all antelope units and five deer units, the Game Commission announced Friday.

All antelope units and the Blue, Buffalo, Wahoo, Pine Ridge and Elkhorn deer units were oversubscribed during the regular application period for residents from May 10 to June 1.

Permits to those units will be allotted by the drawing. In addition, there are only nine permits left in the Republican deer management unit.

After the drawing, permits left in unfilled units will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.

Monzon Risks Title Against Emile Griffith

Monte Carlo, Monaco (UPI) — In what is probably his last chance for another world title, 35-year-old Emile Griffith Saturday will try to take the world middleweight boxing crown from Argentina's Carlos Monzon.

The New Yorker has already lost to Monzon once in the attempt when he was stopped in the 14th round in Buenos Aires in the fall of 1971. And with two recent defeats behind him he will go into the ring the underdog.

The bout was scheduled for 3:30 p.m. CDT in the open-air Louis II Soccer Stadium.

Wood's Streak Ends As Milwaukee Prevails

Associated Press

The Milwaukee Brewers stopped fabulous Wilbur Wood's winning streak at five games, handing the Chicago White Sox a 5-3 defeat Friday night.

Wood, the majors' top winner with a 13-4 record, didn't last past the fifth inning as the Brewers raked the star knuckleball pitcher for 11 hits, including a home run by George Scott.

Scott also had a double and knocked two runs and helped the Brewers take a 4-1 lead after five against Wood, who had won 12 of his last 13 games before Friday night.

Ken Berry hit a three-run homer and Bill Singer posted his ninth victory with ninth-inning relief help, leading Chicago over New York. The Angels ripped into New York starter Mike Kekich in the third inning when Billy Grabarkewitz and Vada Pinson singled and Berry sliced his homer into the right field stands for the Angel's winning runs.

Carlton Fisk and Rico Petrocelli belted home runs, helping Boston beat Oakland. The loss was the sixth in the last seven games for the defending World Champions.

UNO Drops Affiliation With NAIA

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The University of Nebraska at Omaha Friday announced it had withdrawn from the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA). UNO will become an active member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) beginning with the fall term of 1973, the university reported.

In making the announcement, UNO Chancellor Ronald Roskens said "differences in academic, eligibility, and operational procedural matters of the two members would compound the problems of adherence to all regulations of both associations."

Roskens said the majority of the university's "newly-scheduled competition is strictly with NCAA institutions, a number of which are classified University Division."

440 Leader Enters Gals Track Meet

Hastings — The United States' fastest female quarter-miler, Wendy Koenig, will be among the competitors here Saturday in the Midwestern AAU Women's Track and Field Championships.

The member of the Colorado Gold Track Club, a member of the U.S. Olympic team last summer, has the best 440-yard dash time in the country this season.

A teammate, Barbara Lawson, has run a 4:50.0 mile and was a member of the 1968 U.S. Olympic team.

Attempting to make a comeback in the meet will be discus thrower Carol Moseke Frost, the 1970 Pan American champion and a member of the 1968 U.S. Olympic team.

Competition will get under way at noon Sunday on the Adams Central all-weather track.

Game Commission Says Fish Kill Has Stopped

A bacterial infection that killed a number of fish in Lake McConaughy earlier this year has apparently run its course, according to Game and Parks Commission fisheries biologists.

Biologists reported seeing no infected game fish in the lake recently, and infected carp spotted were in the recovery stages.

The disease in question is hemorrhagic septicemia, which is caused by an unusually heavy infestation of a bacteria common to all lakes. The heavy die-off was discovered in mid-March, and the Federal Fish Disease Laboratory in Tishomingo, Okla., made the diagnosis on the basis of samples of carp, walleye, and white bass from the lake.

"We still don't know for sure what stress might have caused the outbreak," said Bob Thomas, chief of the Commission's

Smalley Aids USC Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roy Smalley slammed a two-run homer, tripled, then scored what proved the winning run as defending national champion Southern California edged Los Angeles State 4-3 Friday in the first game of the NCAA Dist. 8 baseball playoffs.

The second game of the best of three series was scheduled Saturday between USC, the NCAA champions the last three seasons, and Pacific Coast Athletic Association champion LA State.

Southern Cal now has a 45-11 season mark to 31-19 for Los Angeles.

Nebraska City Track Closes

Nebraska City — Whitehead Speedway, which has conducted late model stock car races here, has closed for the season.

Promoter Glen Whitehead indicated it had been a mistake for the half-mile dirt track to switch from Saturday night to Friday night programs.

Attendance and car entries fell markedly, according to Whitehead.

Lincoln 80s Get Victory

Crete — Lincoln 80's semipro baseball team edged Crete in 12 innings Thursday night by a score of 3-2.

Crete sent the game into extra innings by scoring a run in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Memphis Leaves

MEMPHIS (AP) — Memphis State University withdrew from the Missouri Valley Conference Thursday after members of the league rejected a proposal by Memphis State to allow members to remain eligible for the MVC football championship with a five-game conference schedule.

Weightlifters Tourney Set

Former Lincoln East wrestler Mike Arthur and Roger Benjamin head a contingent of Lincoln Health Club weightlifters who will be competing in the Nebraska State Powerlifting tournament in Omaha Saturday.

The meet, to be held at the Omaha Downtown U, opens at 9 a.m. with the Mr. Nebraska Physique contest. That will be followed by the lightweight division at 10 and the heavyweights at 1 p.m.

Legion Baseball Opens Saturday At Sherman

Lincoln's 1973 American Legion baseball program starts Saturday at Sherman Field with a pair of games.

Franklin Co. will square off with Judds Brothers in the 5:30 of the season in the eighth to give Kansas City its victory over the Indians.

Ralph Garr hit a two-run homer and pinch-hitter Dick Dietz singled across the go-ahead tally in a five-run seventh, carrying Atlanta over Chicago.

Richie Hebner drove in tour runs with a homer, double and sacrifice fly and Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen added homers, powering Pittsburgh past Cincinnati.

Feuerbach Equals Record

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Al Feuerbach, the giant with the golden arm, tied the U.S. Track and Field Federation shot put record of teammate George Woods Friday night with a heave of 69 feet, 9 1/4 inches.

Woods, like Feuerbach representing the Pacific Coast Track Club, set the federation record a year ago.

It was first believed that Feuerbach had broken the meet record because the program listed Randy Matson of the Texas Raiders, with a toss of 68-1/4 in 1971, as holding the existing record. A spokesman said the program was in error.

Feuerbach, former Emporia, Kan., State star who has his eye on 72 feet, broke Matson's long-standing world record at San Jose, Calif., two weeks ago with a 71-7 toss. Matson's record was 71-5 1/2.

Nebraska's Roger Chadwick qualified for the Saturday finals (8:15 p.m.) in the 880 with a 1:49.9 in his semifinal run. He needs 1:49.5 to qualify for next week's NCAA meet at Baton Rouge, La.

NU's Gary Gressett was eliminated from further 120 high hurdle competition by running fifth in his trial heat in the time of 14.1. Only the top four went on to further competition.

Ninth race, purse $5,500, 4-year-olds & up, claiming $5,500-$6,900, mile-1/16th, T-1:46.4-5.

Savage Remains Critical

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Race driver Swede Savage remained in critical condition for the third straight day Friday and driver Salt Walther still was listed as serious at Methodist Hospital, where both were being treated for injuries suffered in crashes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Savage, 26, Santa Ana, Calif., was severely burned and suffered other injuries in a fiery crash during the 500-mile auto race Wednesday.

Three Wingate Ind., spectators who were burned when Walther crashed—Sue Rankin and Diane Dazey, both 15, and Dorothy West, 51—remained hospitalized, the girls serious, the woman in fair condition.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretariat, the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes winner, turned in a sparkling workout at Belmont Park Friday in preparation for the June 9th running of the Belmont Stakes.

Withockey Ron Turcotte in the saddle and owner Mrs. Helen Tweedy as well as trainer Lucien Laurin looking on, the bright red chestnut sped a mile in the fast time of 1:34 4/5 and pulled up in 1:48 3/5 for 1 1/4 miles.

Getting into high gear rapidly, Secretariat turned in the following fractions for each eighth of a mile: :12, :22 4/5, :35 1/5, :47, 1:11, 1:22 4/5, 1:34 4/5 and 1:48 3/5.

Secretariat seeks to become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation swept the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes in 1948 in the 1 1/2 mile Belmont Stakes, the longest and oldest event in the series.

District Finals Set In Illinois

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) — Southern Illinois whipped Miami of Ohio, 8-1, Friday and will play Big Ten champion Minnesota Saturday for the NCAA District 4 major college baseball title.

SIU and Miami, clashing in the third and last semifinal game of the day, were tied 1-1 in the seventh inning when pinch-runner Ken Kral stole home to give the Salukis a 2-1 lead.

Permit Drawing On June 18

A drawing for big game permits for the 1973 season will be June 18 for all antelope units and five deer units, the Game Commission announced Friday.

All antelope units and the Blue, Buffalo, Wahoo, Pine Ridge and Elkhorn deer units were oversubscribed during the regular application period for residents from May 10 to June 1.

Permits in those units will be allotted by the drawing. In addition, there are only nine permits left in the Republican deer management unit.

After the drawing, permits left in unfilled units will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.

Monzon Risks Title Against Emile Griffith

Monte Carlo, Monaco (UPI) — In what is probably his last chance for another world title, 35-year-old Emile Griffith Saturday will try to take the world middleweight boxing crown from Argentina's Carlos Monzon.

The New Yorker has already lost to Monzon once in the attempt when he was stopped in the 14th round in Buenos Aires in the fall of 1971. And with two recent defeats behind him he will go into the ring the underdog.

The bout was scheduled for 3:30 p.m. CDT in the open-air Louis II Soccer Stadium.

ECC Successful In 1973 Unicam

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Environmental Control Council Friday looked ahead to legislative priorities for next year after having compiled what was termed an "extraordinary" track record during the the 1973 Unicameral.

Council chairman Betty Abbott of Omaha reflected on the council's legislative scorecard saying, "It looked like we were going to have trouble from the word 'go,' yet we had so many bills enacted that it was undoubtedly a successful session."

The two major accomplishments cited by Department of Environmental Control Director James L. Higgins were LB254, which repeals the Wyoming Clause from the 1971 Environmental Control Act, and LB338, which allows violations of water quality standards to be handled as civil instead of criminal matters.

The Wyoming Clause stipulated that the state could not enact pollution limitations more stringent than the federal government's. The council was subsequently unable to legally adopt a statewide air pollution plan, since most of the state's air is cleaner than federal guidelines insist.

Legislation Killed
Legislation which was killed by the Legislature included LB195, which would have allowed citizens to file lawsuits against the DEC when polluters were not being regulated; LB465, the Land Use Act; and LB392, which required pest control operators to be licensed.

Another significant step forward was an increased budget for the agency's operations, Higgins said. In addition, a uniform state pay plan was enacted to raise the income of lower-income employees; Higgins said the pay plan would mean significant salary increases for a number of DEC employees.

Glancing ahead to the 1974 Legislature, Higgins said efforts would be renewed to get a solid waste management act passed. The topic of solid waste disposal will be studied by a legislative committee during the interim.

Higgins said the department would also seek a mandatory certification program for waste water treatment operators. A recent survey indicated a sizeable minority of municipal waste treatment plants are being inefficiently run.

One Dark Cloud
The only dark cloud on the horizon cited by Higgins involves the availability of federal matching funds for secondary sewage treatment plants. The Legislature passed a $4.1 million provision for the state's 12½% share, but so far, Higgins said, only one project (Omaha) has received federal dollars for fiscal 1973.

Although Congress passed a multibillion-dollar secondary

Hinchey Put On OPPD Board

Gov. J. James Exon Friday named William E. Hinchey of Omaha to replace Mayor Ed Zorinsky on the Omaha Public Power District Board. Zorinsky resigned after his election as mayor.

Hinchey, 38, is regional sales manager for Nebraska Blue-Cross-Blue Shield. He will become the youngest member of the board.

Army Captain Freed On Bond In Morals Case

Omaha (AP) — The Douglas County attorney's office says a U.S. Army captain charged with debauching a minor has waived preliminary hearing and has been released on $5,000 bond.

Captain Carrell E. Proby had been a volunteer probation officer for the Lancaster County Juvenile Court for ten months until his arrest last week.

Proby was arrested after police said they saw four boys get into a car in downtown Omaha. Police followed the auto to a motel.

Police said they were admitted to a room by Proby and the boys said they were paid $5 to pose for pictures.

Merna Bank Request Nixed

State Banking Director Henry E. Ley reported Friday his department has denied the application of the Merna State Bank for a charter to operate a bank in Merna.

sewage treatment program, the Nixon administration has impounded those funds in an effort to fight inflation by holding the line on federal spending.

"As we sit here," Higgins said, "we haven't even begun to put out fiscal 1973 money."

And unless the money arrives by July 1, Higgins said the current priority list for funds will have to be revised to reflect new applications for financial assistance. Consequently, some communities which were scheduled to receive funds could have their construction delayed by new requests from communities having more serious water treatment problems.

"Delicate Situation"
"We're in a very delicate situation," Higgins said. "The council will have to revise priorities at the July or August meeting."

In other business, the council adopted a series of revised water quality standards. The revisions are designed to protect water quality in areas used for water sports.

The council also adopted a resolution preventing the DEC director from having more than 10% of his income derived from an interest needing a water pollution permit. Higgins reportedly has no such conflict of interest.

Tuesday, June 12, for exterior cleaning, painting, sanding and repair to clerestory & additional lower story windows to the State Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebraska. Bids shall be opened at the office of the State Purchasing Bureau, Room 1404, State Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebraska, 68503.

All bids shall conform to the plans and specifications prepared by the office of the State Building Commission Architect. All bids must be accompanied by a certified check, cashier's check, money order, or bank draft made payable to the State of Nebraska Building Commission; or a bid bond executed by the bidder in the amount of five percent (5%) of the amount of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.

Should any bidder refuse to enter into an agreement with the State Building Commission for the performance bond within ten days of the date of notice of the acceptance of such bid by the Commission, the bid security will be forfeited to the Commission as liquidated damages. No bidder may withdraw his bid after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids until such time as he has executed the contract documents.

Plans and specifications for the work may be secured by the Prime Contractor from the Architect at the Capital Facilities Planning Bureau, Room 1316, State Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebraska.

The Purchasing Bureau reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive minor informality and technicalities.

ECC Successful In 1973 Unicom

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Environmental Control Council Friday looked ahead to legislative priorities for next year after having completed what was termed an "extraordinary" track record during the the 1973 Unicomeral.

Council chairman Betty Abbott of Omaha reflected on the council's legislative scorecard saying, "It looked like we were going to have trouble from the word 'go,' yet we had so many bills enacted that it was undoubtedly a successful session."

The two major accomplishments cited by Department of Environmental Control Director James L. Higgins were LB254, which repeals the Wyoming Clause from the 1971 Environmental Control Act, and LB338, which allows violations of water quality standards to be handled as civil instead of criminal matters.

The Wyoming Clause stipulated that the state could not enact pollution limitations more stringent than the federal government's. The council was subsequently unable to legally adopt a statewide air pollution plan, since most of the state's air is cleaner than federal guidelines insist.

Legislation Killed

Legislation which was killed by the Legislature included LB195, which would have allowed citizens to file lawsuits against the DEC when polluters were not being regulated; LB465, the Land Use Act; and LB392, which required pest control operators to be licensed.

Another significant step forward was an increased budget for the agency's operations, Higgins said. In addition, a uniform state pay plan was enacted to raise the income of lower-income employees. Higgins said the pay plan would mean significant salary increases for a number of DEC employees.

Glancing ahead to the 1974 Legislature, Higgins said efforts would be renewed to get a solid waste management act passed. The topic of solid waste disposal will be studied by a legislative committee during the interim.

Higgins said the department would also seek a mandatory certification program for waste water treatment operators. A recent survey indicated a sizeable minority of municipal waste treatment plants are being inefficiently run.

One Dark Cloud

The only dark cloud on the horizon cited by Higgins involves the availability of federal matching funds for secondary sewage treatment plants. The Legislature passed a $4.1 million provision for the state's 12½% share, but so far, Higgins said, only one project (Omaha) has received federal dollars for fiscal 1973.

Although Congress passed a multibillion-dollar secondary sewage treatment program, the Nixon administration has impounded those funds in an effort to fight inflation by holding the line on federal spending.

"As we sit here," Higgins said, "we haven't even begun to put out fiscal 1973 money."

And unless the money arrives by July 1, Higgins said the current priority list for funds will have to be revised to reflect new applications for financial assistance. Consequently, some communities which were scheduled to receive funds could have their construction delayed by new requests from communities having more serious water treatment problems.

"Delicate Situation"

"We're in a very delicate situation," Higgins said. "The council will have to revise priorities at the July or August meeting."

In other business, the council adopted a series of revised water quality standards. The revisions are designed to protect water quality in areas used for water sports.

The council also adopted a resolution preventing the DEC director from having more than 10% of his income derived from an interest needing a water pollution permit. Higgins reportedly has no such conflict of interest.

Market Listless, Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market poked through a listless trading day Friday, dropping lower as investors continued to worry about the clouds of a weakened dollar, rising gold prices, increasing inflation and a prediction that the prime rate was still on the upward march.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed the day down 7 1/2 points at 893.96. In the three prior sessions of this holiday-shortened week, the Dow had fallen nearly 30 points.

Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange outpaced advancing issues 975 to 391 in 1,752 issues changing hands.

Volume was a scant total of 104,400,000 shares, the lowest since Sept. 18, 1972, when it was 88 million shares.

Ralph Acampora of Harris, Upham & Co., said the light volume was a positive factor in some ways.

"At least it's not a major sell-off," he said.

Newton Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. agreed that the market was simply suffering from the factors that plagued it all week.

"It is beset by a number of factors including the decline in the dollar overseas and the rise in gold prices," Zinder said. "The market is suffering more from neglect than anything else."

The turnaround this week came upon the heels of a good rise the previous week. The Dow had gained 35 1/2 points in the week before.

The NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks dropped 0.56 to 54.86. The most active issue on the board was Eastern Air Lines, down 1/8 to 10.00, followed by American Telephone and Telegraph, down 1/8 to 29 1/2.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
